Action of Teenagers Causes Police, Parent Concern

An Acalanes student received a brain concussion after he was hit by a piece of pipe following a football game.

Chains were swung and a car was damaged in Orinda following a football game in Oakland.

Eight juveniles were arrested for car theft, two other juveniles were arrested for petty theft, one young girl attempted suicide recently.

"Juveniles in Central Contra Costa County are getting to be a more serious problem to police officers than hardened felons," Norman Wilson, inspector of the Central County Sheriff's Substation informed The Sun.

Following the reporting of the aforementioned incidents, The Sun interrogated police, sheriff's deputies, juvenile officers, school authorities and parents in an attempt to determine whether the central county has a serious juvenile problem.

According to somewhat conflicting reports, Walnut Creek police recently were informed there was a "rumble" scheduled after the Las Lomas - Acalanes football game.

Chief Leigh Brilliant of the Walnut Creek police department told The Sun that his officers were aware of the rumored gang fight and kept two known meeting places of teenagers under surveillance.

Shortly after the game, about 20 carloads of youngsters pulled into Hokey's Drive In and the A&W Drive In in Walnut Creek, Brilliant reported.

Officers moved in and the youths were asked to leave the vicinity. Brilliant noted that the youths were polite to officers, indicating they were from the central county area and dispersed.

After they left Walnut Creek, the youths were reported to go to the A&W Root Beer Drive In in Lafayette where the alleged beating took place.

The boy reportedly was hit in the head by another youth. He was treated for a brain concussion, but is now back at school.

A second incident was reported on Veterans Day eve in the Walnut Creek area. Reportedly a group of Acalanes students were attempting to avenge the beating of their compatriot earlier in the week.

Reports from parents stated that the youngsters milled about seeking a rumble and were equipped with "tire chains, pieces of pipe and a gun." They left Walnut Creek and drove between Rheem and Lafayette seeking to crash parties after being unable to make contact with Las Lomas students.

A third incident, which is under investigation by the sheriff's office, is a fracas in which would-be party crashers swung chains and damaged a car following a college football game.

The detective division was checking with the deans at both Oakland City College and the College of San Mateo, in an effort to identify and locate the 24 young men, between 17 and 20 years of age, who were reported as the attackers.

John S. Steele, 20, of Oakland, told investigators that, after Friday's game, a party for Oakland City College students was held at the home of one of them, Franklin C. Miller, 21, of 428 Moraga Way, Orinda. During the evening the "outsiders" tried to "crash" the party, he reported, but Miller told them they were not invited.

When Steele and three other guests were about to leave at 1:20 a.m. Saturday, four cars, each containing half-dozen young men, blocked their auto, he said.

The "visitors" started swinging chains, one of which had a spiked steel ball at its end. No one was injured, apparently, but the target vehicle had the rear window and a side window smashed, and a fender and a side of the hood dented.

Steele eluded the chain-swingers and drove to the home of L. T. DeMaeyer, 18 Arbor Way, who telephoned the sheriff's office. Five Lafayette substation officers, led by Sergeant Lloyd Kelley, responded.

Another indication of the mounting juvenile problem is the arrest of two Pleasant Hill boys by the Walnut Creek police department.

Police officers became suspicious when two youths, stopped for routine questioning at 3 a.m., could not explain how they came into possession of an auto distributor part lying on the back seat of their car.

The interrogation continued until they admitted taking carburetors, radios and other parts from 16 autos in the past month.

Sergeant Pat O'Donnell said the thefts occurred in the Concord and Walnut Creek areas. He estimated the loot was worth several hundred dollars.

One boy is being held for investigation of four auto thefts during the past four months.

Following the arrest of the two youths, eight other juveniles, five boys and three girls, five of whom were from Pleasant Hill, caused additional attention on the juvenilt situation to be focused by authorities.

Alameda County sheriff's deputies apprehended the teenagers at Hayward after they allegedly rode in a stolen vehicle from Martinez to Calaveras County, then to Tulare County and then to Hayward.

The Alameda County authorities notified Contra Costa Sheriff Walter F. Young's office of the arrest.

George Halter reported that the eight young people took off in the stolen car from Blum Road.

The owner, a Blum Road man by the name of Lafferty, had loaned his car so they could go to a nearby market, the juvenile officer stated.

Halter added that the juveniles have admitted stealing the auto.

The three girls range in age from 14 to 16. The five boys are from 14 to 17 years old.

Bela Clark, chief juvenile control officer of the sheriff's office, and Brilliant agree that a juvenile problem is not to be found in Contra Costa County.

Brilliant commented that brass knuckles, which parents report juveniles to be in the possession of, have not been confiscated in Walnut Creek. He can not recall, and neither can his officers, the confiscation of a gun from any youth in Walnut Creek.

Youths, in the unincorporated area, however, have been nabbed on weapons infractions. One 17-year-old was arrested for carrying a cancealed weapon several months ago by sheriff's deputies after threatening a 15-year-old girl.

Brilliant pointed out that many "odd" items have been found in the cars of juveniles, but none of the items could be considered a weapon.

"For example," Brilliant said, "when is a jack handle a weapon?" And answered his own question by saying "Our officers can't consider it to be a weapon when it is in the car of a juvenile. We all have them in our cars.

"It is a weapon when we see them in use, and we have never seen this," he concluded.

The consensus is that at present there is not a major problem, but there is the potential here as everywhere.

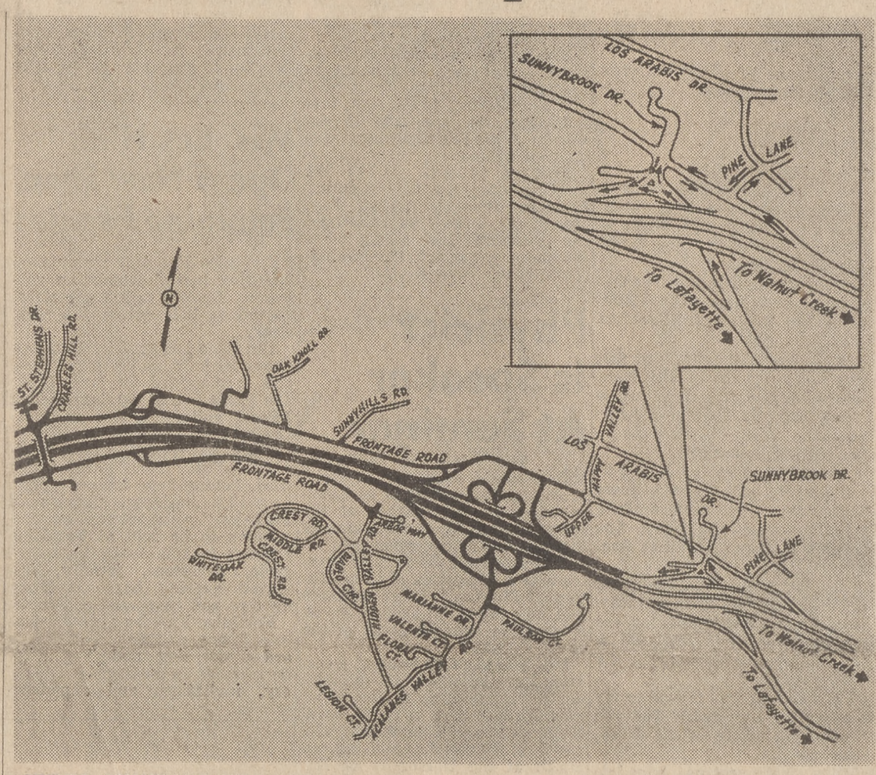
Control, proper recreation and a vigilant eye by parents first, police second and the community third seem to be the prevention needed to avert a major juvenile problem in the central county area, experts agree.

ORINDA SUN

Vol. XVII, No. 37 | Friday, Nov. 20, 1959 | CL 4-4343 | Lafayette-Orinda | Ten Cents

THIS IS a small portion of the high school crowd which attended the Lafayette Junior Chamber of Commerce-sponsored dance at the Veterans Memorial Building in Lafayette following the Acalanes-Miramonte football season curtain dropper last Friday night. Although high schools in the area continued their opposition to after-game dances for the students, the Jaycees have sponsored an event following each football game of the season. The dances have been chaperoned, and there have been no reports of trouble at any of the events. —Sun photo by Mattson.

$4 Million Freeway Section Opens



UNDER CONSTRUCTION for the last 15 months, the Lafayette-Orinda section of the freeway was opened this morning. The 2.1-mile project transformed the former four-lane highway into a six-lane freeway from the vicinity of Sunnybrook Road to the Orinda Crossroads. The above map indicates the new section, the interchanges and connecting roads. The insert at top shows the Sunnybrook Road connection, which will remain open, but still be one way westbound.

Missing Link in Diablo Freeway System Finished

The Lafayette-Orinda section of the freeway was opened to the public at 10 o'clock this morning, thus alleviating a traffic bottleneck between Contra Costa County and the San Francisco-Oakland areas.

A $3,990,000 project, the 2.1-mile freeway section runs from the vicinity of Sunnybrook Road, west of Lafayette, to the Orinda Crossroads. Its opening this morning means there are six lanes of high grade freeway from just east of Pleasant Hill Road to the Crossroads.

EXCEPTIONALLY good weather enabled the contractors on the project to complete work about 10 days early, according to the State Division of Highways.

All previously unopened portions of interchanges between Lafayette and Orinda were also opened this morning, and permanent directional signs have already been installed by the state for the guidance of motorists using the new facilities.

Westbound traffic will have full use of the three new westbound lanes of the freeway, which were completed only this week, but eastbound traffic on the new section temporarily will be restricted to two lanes while traffic stripe relocation work is accomplished.

THE EASTBOUND lanes, completed some months ago, have been used for four-lane traffic in both directions during the final work on the westbound lanes.

Under construction since August, 1958, the freeway section provides a full four-quadrant cloverleaf interchange at Acalanes Road, portions of which were placed in service earlier.

The project also includes a diamond-type interchange at the Charles Hill Road, where all sections except the westbound off ramp were previously opened to traffic.

FORMERLY TWO-WAY, the ramp to Charles Hill Road and St. Stephen's Drive is now changed to one-way westbound to Orinda. Access to the Charles Hill area westbound will now be via the newly completed off ramp.

State officials cautioned local residents that the Sunnybrook Road connection will remain open, but will be only one-way westbound. Both lanes will be one-way. Motorists from Sunnybrook Road desiring to reach Lafayette will have to turn right and proceed through the new Acalanes Road interchange.

With the expected opening of the Walnut Creek bypass in March, there will be six lanes of straight freeway from Walnut Creek to the tunnel, a distance of about 10 miles.

THE ACTUAL dedication of the new freeway section took place Wednesday afternoon, with Second District Supervisor Mel F. Nielsen performing the ribbon-cutting.

On hand for the ceremonies were representatives of the State Division of Highways, the county public works department, the Contra Costa County Development Association and the Lafayette Chamber of Commerce.

Gordon H. Ball, Gordon Ball, Inc. and Ball and Simpson were the contractors.

Committee Will Study Altarinda

Members of the newly-formed citizens' advisory building committee of the Orinda Union School District met with the district's board of trustees for the first time Tuesday night and launched studies into two immediate problems.

The five-man committee will first look into the possibility of the district acquiring a school site on the Altarinda property, north and east of the Crossroads, and will study the architect's plans for the proposed Inland Valley Intermediate School.

FOUR OF THE five committee members were present at the meeting, with J. A. Felchlin unable to attend. Those present were Francis Tobias, Herbert Nilmeier, R. W. Roth and Victor Kingston.

Joseph L. Sheaff, district superintendent, reported that Robert Spott, owner of the Altarinda property, has submitted his proposal for a school site in the area.

Sheaff said the Spott proposal is a 12-acre piece of land which would level out to an acceptable eight acres for a two-level school site.

EARLIER, ARCHITECT James Anderson, at the school board's request, had submitted several different acceptable locations withi nAltarinda as possible school sites.

The superintendent told the school board and the building committee that although Spott's proposal was not the same as any of Anderson's, it did include some of the acreage of one of the Anderson suggestions.

School Board Chairman Nathan Gray told the committee it should survey the Spott property in consideration of the district's site requirements to come up with a recommendation, if possible, and it should also determine whether the district's next site should be on the Altarinda property.

The district's requirements, Gray said, are that the site should be a minimum of 10 acres in size and at least eight of those acres should be adequatel yusable.

Board Will Decide on Inland Valley School, December 30 -- Maybe!

By LARRY GLAZIER

Orinda Union School District trustees will open bids on the proposed Inland Valley Intermediate School December 30—if the state allocation board allocates sufficient funds to the district at its meeting December 15.

The school board agreed on the bid-opening date after hearing a report from Superintendent Joseph L. Sheaff and James Anderson, district architect, on the allocation board's meeting in Sacramento Tuesday.

TRUSTEES MET in special session Tuesday night to consider the allocation board's decision and to authorize Sheaff to advertise for bids on the project, which would result in Orinda's second seventh and eighth grade school.

Anderson, who attended the allocations board meeting on behalf of the district, reported that the Inland Valley plans and application were approved by the state board, but the allocations were not authorized Tuesday.

He explained that because of a lack of funds, the state allocations board now can only authorize $8 million per month for school construction, and funds will be granted on the basis of priority points.

THE ORINDA proposal, asking for approximately $625,000 in state funds, ranked high enough in priority Tuesday, but because of a delay in the handling of the Inland Valley architectural plan, it did not qualify for November allocatoins, Anderson said.

According to the architect, the district's plans were held up three days in the offices of the State Division of Architecture, eliminating the local request from this month's consideration.

Under questioning by the school board members, Anderson stated that new applications with higher priority may be approved by the state before the December meeting, leaving Orinda without allocations for another month.

But, he added, "I feel confident that the Orinda district's request will be approved at the December meeting."

The trustees' original timetable for the Inland Valley project, to be located on the same land that the Inland Valley kindergarten through sixth grade school is located, called for allocations to be authorized at the November meeting of the state board.

If the funds are allocated in December and bids are opened December 30, Sheaff reported, construction can start in mid-January and the contractor will have about seven and a half months in which to complete the school.

School board members authorized Sheaff to begin advertising for bids on the project December 4.

Since the closing date for applications for December's school construction allocations is about December 7, Anderson said the district would be able to determine within just a few days after bids were advertised whether or not its priority will be high enough.

The district earlier received allocations for construction of the Wagner Ranch School, but when the bids were received all were too high to meet state qualifications and the trustees decided to drop the Wagner Ranch plans in favor of the Inland Valley Intermediate School.

BUT, SHAEFF reported, the Wagner Ranch allocations had to be given up by the district in order for it to apply for the new Inland Valley project.

At Tuesday's meeting of the allocations board, the Orinda request was eighth in priority out of 56 submitted, and it had 89 priority points. The Wagner Ranch request had only 65 priority points when funds were allocated.

Priority points are based on the number of students unhoused in the district, Shaeff stated, and high school projects, which normally cost somewhat more than $2 million each, are considered on the same basis as elementary projects.

Thus, he pointed out, if three high school projects ranked higher in priority than the Orinda request, it is feasible that all of the $8 million could be used up by only these three projects.

Fire District Advances Meet

Commissioners of the Orinda County Fire Protection District will meet next Thursday, rather than the following Thursday, which is Thanksgiving Day, it was announced.

PRESENTATION OF THE Richfield Oil Company's beautification award was made to the Orinda Garden Club on the grounds of the Orinda Library last Saturday, exactly one year after the new $115,000 library building was dedicated. The garden club won the award, the magnolia tree and plaque shown here, for its landscaping of the library grounds. William Graves (center) presented the award on behalf of the oil company, and the others are, from the left, Mrs. Jack Bottomly, Mrs. Stuart Campbell, Mrs. Woodburn Lamb, Mrs. John Madison, Mrs. Paul Pollaczek, Mrs. Jeffress Rodwell, Mrs. Joseph Lang, Mrs. Roger Stark and, with the shovel, Perc. Brown, who served as general chairman of the library building fund committee.

Association Candidates Introduced at Meeting

Seven of the 10 candidates for five expiring directorships on the Orinda Association's board of directors were introduced before a sparse gathering at the regular meeting of the association's civic afairs committee Monday night.

Crash Ends Prominent Woman's Life

Close relatives are caring for the children of Mrs. Beverly Curtis, 42, of 20 Lake Place, Walnut Creek, who was killed Saturday evening in a head-on collision on the Bay Bridge.

Funeral services for Mrs. Curtis, president of the Ahwahnee Guild for John Muir Hospital, will be held today at 2 p.m. in the Little Chapel of the Flowers.

Her husband, Roger, 39, was injured, and his mother and father, Lloyd, 65, and Marion, 64, both of Oakland, were seriously injured.

California Highway Patrol officers said a half mile east of the Yerba Buena tunnel, the Curtis car collided with an eastbound sports car driven by John Hunter, 20, of Berkeley.

Hunter was driving at a high rate of speed in the west-bound lane, CHP reports say.

All the injured were taken to Mission Emergency Hospital, where Hunter is under police guard.

Friends have asked that contributions be sent to the Mt. Diablo Therapy Center and the John Muir Hospital, in lieu of flowers.

The Ahwahnee Guild plans will send a memorial gift to the hospital in Mrs. Curtis' name.

Orinda Bluebird Troops Combine

The Jolly Joyful Bluebirds and the Glad Heart Bluebirds joined to become, very appropriately, the Jolly Heart Bluebirds.

Fourteen girls selected their new name at the first meeting this year in September, at the Sleepy Hollow School.

The following Bluebirds are members: Penny Baron, Margaret Benny, Connie Coleman, Sally Colony, Linda Creakmile, Marguerite Guzzo, Ruth Lackey, Susan Mills, Jennie Peake, Debbie Odenthal, Pam Rudd, Laurie Spongberg, Linda Wayne and Lorrie Wilford.

The leader, Marge Baron, and assistant leader, Dorothy Colony, have planned an active program for the coming year, culminating in the fly-up in June 1960.

At present the girls are busy working on seed mosaic jewel boxes at the home of Malford Creakmile.

Principal Tells Rotary of CYA

Nicholas Barbieri, principal of Burton School in Lafayette, spoke before the Orinda Rotary Club Wednesday at noon.

His topic was the California Youth Athority which was founded 15 years ago.

Next Wednesday Orinda Rotarians will see a film presented by Maynard Buehler, "Africa — all its Furor."

In a Complete Fog!

SUNNY California! Funny California! Land of the midnight moon drenching the valleys & hills in brightness. Land of the morning fog shrouding the hills, the view & the village.

Jim Denning has a Jack Lemmon smile & Max Aberham & Jonathan Bachelor kind of remind of Kirk Douglas. In fact, during the Oakland Premier of the Life of Van Gogh, Lust for Life, painter Bachelor barely could escape the theater lobby. No wonder! Wearing a black velvet cape & an arty beret not to mention his built-in red beard, why, everybody thought he WAS Van Gogh. Or at least Kirk Douglas!

For some reason, Marge Douglass reminds us of all the girls that Coby Whitmore draws for fiction-mag. illustrations!

THAT HAPPY COUPLE who become Mr. & Mrs. on Thanksgiving Eve, we mean Lucky Ann Hupp & Buzz Williams, were honored w/a Barbecue Shower last Sat. by the Robert McEligots at their home high on Hall Dr.

It looked like a preview of the Gay Season w/the Dr. host dispensing champagne punch in a fire-engine red vest. Petite Nan, in shocking-pink velveteen hostess trousers & top, served up a handsome array of hot canapes, one of which was skewered meatballs stuck into a scooped out cabbage from which blazed a flame (via a hidden can of sterno). Oh, such sentence structure!

A unique idea from the hostess Claire Ward was for the guests to bring their favorite recipe copied on an index card & accompanied by the canned or packaged ingredients used in the recipe.

(Due to last-minute circumstances, the shower was moved to my home so it was kind of a surprise party for me, too.) The tall blonde betrothed sat in the middle of a big circle of all of us, drowned in tissue, casseroles & canned goods.

Beside her, Judy Ackerman sat putting all the pretty ribbons into one of those ribbon bouquets which are used later at Wedding rehearsal & Diane Larson was Lucy Ann's other contemporay on hand.

Art is very therapeutic!

THE FOG LIFTED on a fair day last Thurs. for the Orinda Art Center's 10-yr. preview of Achievements held at the Orinda Library from 10 to noon. The light & cheerfulness of the Library certainly adopts itself to such exhibits. We were having a work-day, painting NOT w/palette but w/redwood stain & were glad we had taken the time to stop in.

AT THE TEA Table, alternating at serving & pouring were Betty Lindsay, Dorothy Traverso & Helen Jones. Chatting together, Maddie Borden, Margaret Tharp & Kay McGuire. It was the latter lady, together w/Doris Frazer & Joe Sheaff who got the Art Center off to a start many yrs. back.

Work done by the children in the Sat. morning sessions was displayed outside in the patio. Here, an eyecatching Thanksgiving turkey drawn in all its splendiferous coloring . . . Helen Gibbs going the rounds w/a friend . . . Charlie dropping in too for a viewing.

PEBBLE ART also in the patio—A handsome small table of satin-smooth & subtle-toned pebbles in a leaf by Jackie Archer . . . A pebble wall plaque by Lil Mika who is another Rock-Hound . . . Jean Cullen admiring more pebble art by Virginia Stafford.

COMING & GOING . . . Jean Henderson having a look at the work done bystudents in the Basic Design class taught by Gloria Brown, Orinda artist who has rental pictures currently hanging at the new Zellerbach Bldg. in SF & will have a one-woman show in March over in The City.

Relaxing from her real estate duties momentarily was Margaret Moore . . . Cappy Champion & Dorothy Jones telling of the enjoyment derived from the design class . . . Bernease Lewis browsing the oil paintings & water colors . . . Faye Hopkins' vivid watercolors & a splash of brilliant red geraniums framed in antique white signed by Irene Hickox . . . Muir Sorrick, Ellie Dodge & Ellen Leftwich standing back to see the contrast in a variety of paintings by Cindy Quinn.

THERAPEUTIC, that's what we think it is, to see all the manner of marvelous creations crafted by Art Center members . . . Hanging in the high window, a huge dellarobbia wreath of pinecone petals by Dorothy Traverso . . . Christmas ball strimmed in velvet & gold braid, bits of jewel & pearl, gave ornaments by Helen Unruh an heirloom look of the Victorian era & if you are interested in these (Podesta & Baldocchi are famous for them every season!) Helen will be instructing a class coming up in the Xmas Workshop early Dec. More about that later.

Handsome handblocked Christmas cards as well as handscreened placemats & linens by Betty Lindsay were also on view as well as photos of the Art Center dance classes. The Christmas cards, by the way, are VERY individual & can be ordered with or without name. Call Betty at CL 4-3560.

We bid 'Bye to Muriel Ray, Ann Pollazcek, Elsie Keresey & Fran McBane & went back to our OUR painting, which not quite as artistic, proved sort of soul-satisfying, too!

ANOTHER DAY recently at the Library, we bumped into our Mum & Yum lady—that would be Rita Bowersox, famous for her Mums & certainly for her yums, too, she being quite a gourmet cook. This very interesting friend, who obviously enjoys EVERYTHING she tackles, tells me she took up painting just two yrs. ago & Voila! Into the library she brought some portraits she just HAPPENED to have in the car. They were almost life-like! One oil she did was so realistic that friends who had seen the painting in her Laf. home recognized the model whom they saw in Carmel. We can expect a showing of her work in the near future!

Currently on view at the Library are paintings by still another Orinda artist, Natalie Woolsey, whose studio in the Village is above Ken Courtright's office.

'Beauty' Group Discusses Signs, Lots, Landscaping

"Esthetics" and how to achieve them were discussed by the Orinda Beautification Committee Tuesday night in the Moraga Nursery.

The committee has been trying to obtain redwood plaques which will name the organizations that contributed olive trees, planted at the entrance to Orinda.

They were "show" plaques carved by M. K. Gruver of Danville, but members felt these were too large for the size of the trees.

Norman Tuttle will investigate the posibility of a small desk-size plaque.

THE COMMITTEE discussed Safeway's landscaping plans for the new store and felt more trees should be planted along the edge of the road to break the glare which will be created by the large expanse of Safeway's parking lot.

"Shade trees could be planted in concrete planters," suggested Robert Babcock. "This has been found to be very successful in the new shopping centers."

The committee praised both the Village Beauty Studio and Warren Harrold for landscaping their new areas.

It was decided to send a letter to PG&E, asking for removal of weeds and some basic planting around the base of the PG&E tower that dominates the entrance to Orinda.

"THE FACT that bigger and bigger signs have gone up in this area is a matter of great concern to those who planted olive trees so that visitors would have a better impression of Orinda," said Mrs. Paul Pollaczek.

The committee agreed that outsized signs are a detriment to the area.

The revolving Shell sign that dominates the approach to the Village from the underpass was also mentioned.

January 10 was set as the planting date for the flowering chestnut trees on Bryant Way. Money for these was raised by the committee last spring when members sponsored the Dramateurs' play, "The Rivals."

Mrs. Patmont, secretary of the committee, announced word had been received from the County that they will plant the triangle at the intersection of Moraga Highway and Camino Pablo.

Jody Still Sick, But Returns Home

Little Jody Raymond, the seven year old stricken with a rare form of aplastic anemia, has returned to his Orinda home, but he may have to be readmitted to the hospital for continued treatment of a staphilococcus infection.

Jody, the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Raymond, 11 Valley View Drive, contracted the infection as the result of one of a series of required blood transfusions.

HE WAS ALLOWED to go home from the hospital this week but the infection, which complicates his blood disease, kicked back on him yesterday, and it is possible that further extensive treatment may be necessary, his father reported.

Meanwhile, Orinda and central county residents have rallied behind the Del Rey School second grader to the point where Jody has a surplus credit of seven pints of blood at the Alameda-Contra Costa Counties Blood Bank in Oakland.

Because Jody is suffering from a disease which damages the bone marrow and cuts off the supply of blood, he will need transfusions for quite some time in order to keep him on the road to recovery.

Mrs. Les Hink Opens New Shop, Feminine Fancies

Feminine Fancies, a new shop featuring ladies' foundation garments, lingerie and accessories, opened at 17-B Orinda Way this week.

The store is owned by Mrs. Les (Bea) Hink Jr. and Henry Oman, and is managed by Mrs. Hink. The Hinks live at 170 Camino Don Miguel and have two children, Les Hink III and Timothy Hink.

Physicist Is Speaker At Seminar

Dr. Wladyslaw J. Swiatecki, outstanding theoretical physicist at the Lawrence Radiation Laboratory, was the speaker at the third meeting of the Miramonte Science Seminar Wednesday.

He introduced the field of physics with a discussion of "The History of Physics." Later speakers will talk about interesting developments in specific areas of the physics field.

DR. SWIATECKI brought a cosmopolitan influence to the students participating in the seminar. He was born in Paris, spent his early life in Poland, was educated in England, receiving his Ph.D. at the University of Birmingham.

He has lived and worked in the Scandinavian countries and has been in the United States only 2½ years.

He is a physicist at Lawrence Radiation Laboratory where his field of study is the theory of fission. His specialty is the liquid drop model. z

AN INTRODUCTION to the field of life sciences was given to the students by Oliver Pearson the previous Wednesday and Dr. Garniss Curtis introduced the field of earth sciences.

These talks by the group leaders in the different fields, as well as the first lectures, are planned to facilitate the choice of projects which the students will carry out under the direction of scitntific specialists in the field.

Miramonte Mirror...

Slide Into Our Sadie Hawkins Dance Tonight

By JULE NOLLER

Miramonte's annual "hick" costume affair, the Sadie Hawkins Dance, will start hopping around 8 o'clock tonight . . .

All Dogpatch characters who attend the shindig won't get in the dance as easily as they think they will . . . The only way they can get in, is through an obstacle course, which ends with a slide.

The moment that the costumes become most effective is when Lil' Abner and the rest of his "Dogpatch pals" fall off the slide onto a pile of hay on one end of the dance floor.

It was Friday the 13th and the temperature was down to a piercing 38 degrees, yet Miramonte's yell leaders and pom-pom girls scrambled into convertibles driven by Carole McChesney and Hetty Dutra to lead the car caravan of 50 or 60 cars to Acalanes

Most of the cars were decorated with green and white streamers and pom poms . . . The most originally decorated car was Charlene Doxie's Volkswagen, on which she had built a Matador axing an Acalanes Don . . . Glenna Clark's Impala Convertible was covered with green and white streamers and had "Miramonte" written on one side and "Matadors" on the other . . .

There was such a tremendous group cheering for Miramonte that there was standing room only even before the game began . . .

Those who weren't wearing fur coats, drinking coffee, or carrying hand-warmers, were stamping their feet and clapping their hands to keep from freezing . . .

Even if Miramonte didn't defeat Acalanes in football, the "12th Man" on the team (which is the Miramonte Rooters) slaughtered the Dons in spirit and enthusiasm . . .

"Enrique" became the official name of Miramonte's mascot, the Matador, at the Big Game Rally last Friday . . .

As you may have guessed already, he was named in honor of Enrique Lopez Bruno, the exchange student from Spain and present Matador of the school . . .

Since several people entered Enrique's name in the "Name the Matador Contest," the prize of $5 was donated in his honor to the A.F.S. Club, which sponsored him . . .

Judy Ageno, senior and former student body secretary, won the Booster Card Contest for selling more cards than anyone in the school . . .

Booster Cards are seasonal tickets to all Miramonte home games in football and basketball . . . They are sold by the students to their parents and to other interested citizens of the community . . .

The junior class, whose president is Tom Ferguson, sold more booster cards than any of the other classes . . . They will be able to choose a king and queen from their class to reign over one of the coming dances . . .

The other winners of the contest were; Charles Blue, senior; Joyce Bailey and Carol Pederson, juniors; Roger McKosker, sophomore; and Bob Williams, freshman . . .

Last Saturday night, 25 A.F.S.'ers (of which only two were boys) toured Chinatown in San Francisco . . .

This excursion included a Chinese dinner, a visit to a Buddhist temple, a tour of shops, and Chinatown's telephone exchange . . .

Dave Dail and Enrique Lopez Bruno were the two lucky boys who were lost (?) among the 23 girls on the trip . . .

Tara Doty, Carolyn Coburn, Carol Knudsen and Sri Widiati were some of the girls who tramped around Chinatown that night.

Mrs. Powell, teacher-advisor for the A.F.S. Club and Mrs. Frank Newman, mother of Bob Newman, the Miramonte exchange student in Italy, were also present on the tour . . .

Balancers - - - "We're Not JDs"

"We're trying to educate the adult public to the fact that all car clubs aren't just bunches of juvenile delinquents."

In that way, a youthful member of the Balancers of Orinda this week described the purpose behind his club's recent inclination to various forms of community service.

THE BALANCERS is a club made up of youths between the ages of 16 and 18 years who share mutual interests in what goes on underneath the hood of an automobile.

Formed last January, the club now has 12 members, all from Orinda, and six prospective members, two of whom are from Oakland.

According to Mike Finn, road captain of the Balancers, the group has one major problem that has become somewhat difficult to cope with — its members are being shunned by Miramonte High School officials.

FINN SAID that because the Balancers have no adult sponsoring group acceptable to the school, the club's members cannot participate in athletics, cannot attend the school dances, cannot wear their club jackets on campus and cannot display their club plaques on their automobiles if the vehicles are to be driven on the school grounds.

Since the group was formed it has been operating on a five-promotion of better driving habits point constitution aimed at "the and the development of mechanical techniques in boys."

But Sunday night, the club will hold a special meeting with the parents of its members, Bob Callan, dean of boys at Miramonte, and any other interested adults, and a new, more stringent constitution will be placed in effect.

THE NEW CONSTITUTION is one recommended for car clubs of this type by the California Highway Patrol, and it has been adapted for the needs of the local group.

It lists the object of the club as follows: "To promote safe and sportsmanlike driving practices on the streets and highways, to conduct competitive efforts and events off the public highways, to stimulate interest in (motorcycle) automobile operation, ownership and enjoyment. To acquaint the public with the joys of motoring (motorcycling) as a sport, not merely a means of transportation."

A section of the constitution stipulates that "any member who commits unsafe driving acts on public highways or whose conduct is otherwise detrimental to the purpose and standing of the club may be suspended or dismissed from the club by a majority vote of all members present."

IN KEEPING with the attempt to educate the public in the advantages of car clubs, the Balancers have made the news twice in recent weeks.

First, they wrote to county officials offering to clean up the litter along the Moraga Highway and Glorietta Boulevard from the Crossroads to Rheem. The county provided the equipment and the work day went off very successfully.

Following the cleanup, the club received an official letter of thanks from W. G. (Bud) Buchanan, chairman of the board of supervisors.

THEN, THE GROUP was semi-deputized by Sheriff Walter F. Young to patrol the Orinda area Halloween night in search of vandals. While on the patrol, Finn came across a couple whose auto had stalled in the Crossroads area.

Finn assisted the couple, and refused to accept any money, but the Orindans later wrote to The Sun praising the youth and bringing the matter to the public attention.

The Balancers' member explained "It is strictly against the club rules to accept money for helping anyone."

HE SAID IT IS club policy to give aided persons a courtesy card stating "You have been assisted by a member of the Balancers of Orinda" whenever some assistance is rendered.

Members of the club patrol the Orinda streets and highways whenever possible seeking people in distress, and Finn reported that some members have lent assistance as many as six times a day — to motorists with flat tires, empty fuel tanks or other auto trouble.

This Sunday the Balancers plan a bottle and coat hanger drive throughout Orinda, and all proceeds will be donated to the United Crusade.

ACCORDING TO FINN, "We want to get started on the right foot and keep going on the right foot. We'd like to interest some civic organization in us, so we can get a sponsor."

He said previous attempts at enlisting a club sponsor failed, but that the group now has an adult group advisor, Warren Merrill, an interested Orinda citizen.

Future public services which are planned by the club are two free public safety checks each year and some sort of "Toys for Tots" drive around Christmas.

The Balancers hold open business meetings each Sunday from 7 to 9 p.m. at Finn's home, 7 Pueblo Court.

Doghouse Goes to Resident

Mrs. B. D. Wood of 219 La Espiral, Orinda, sold her doghouse, with fencing, wire and gate in a jiffy by placing a classified ad in The Sun.

The response from dog lovers and perhaps a few upappreciated husbands, was such that she could have sold several, Mrs. Wood said.

Sun classifieds also sold a "lovable" puppy offered by Mrs. David Goodman of 210 Pleasant View Drive, Pleasant Hill, a sofa bed offered by Mrs. Harry Day of 1719 Bonanza, Walnut Creek, and horse saddle, bridle and breast collars offered by Ken Mattson of 3574 Terrace Way, Lafayette.

These are just a handful of Sun customers from the hundreds each week who report, often with amazement, on the immense response.

A reason for the large response is that each classified insertion appears automatically in the Sun Shopping News on Wednesday and the Walnut Creek Sun, Orinda Sun, Pleasant Hill Sun and Lafayette Sun on Friday.

The "5-in-1" treatment is provided at no extra cost, and is possible only through the Sun's ability to transfer ads from one edition to another.

An ad with 14 words or less costs only $1.60.

Place your ad by Tuesday morning at 10 on the week in which you want your ad to appear.

Carl H. Bryant Named President Of Calif. RECI

The Real Estate Certificate Institute held its annual meeting in Walnut Creek, November 12.

Elected State President was Carl H. Bryant, Walnut Creek real estate salesman. He and the newly elected board of directors will take office January 1. Rich Bramwell, Stockton Realtor, is the outgoing president who organized the new real estate group a year ago.

The Institute is composed of over 300 real estate men and women throughout the state, who hold a certificate in real estate from the University of California, Extension Division. Their aim is the establishment of professional standards of knowledge and practice in the field of real estate.

Bryant, president-elect, said, "Members of the Real Estate Certificate Institute have spent two to four years in evening classes in order to earn a certificate in real estate and the right to apply for membership in the Institute. The advantages of this excellent training are obvious.

However, perhaps just as important is the fact that this effort reflects an attitude of the individual that will enable him to meet the continuing demands of the general public for higher standards of service."

In addition to Bryant, the new officers are Henry Seward, Los Altos, realtor, vice president; Edd Dunkerley of Sunnyvale, secretary; and Jean Gockeroft, Burlingame realtor, treasurer.

Central County Accidents Cause Major Injuries

In central county mishaps this week major injuries were sustained by drivers involved.

Last Friday afternoon, Leroy D. West, 60, of 1761 Magnolia Way, Walnut Creek, was taken to Kaiser Hospital with a fractured wrist, leg and arm, suffered in a headon crash on the Lafayette freeway.

The CHP reported that West was eastbound on Highway 24 east of Charles Hill Road overpass when his pickup car was struck headon by one driven by George A. Robbins, 45, of 6506 Colton Boulevard, Oakland.

A third vehicle driven by Robert E. James, 41, of Walnut Creek, swerved to avoid the smashup on the commuter-clogged highway and hit an embankment.

Witnesses told officers that Robbins applied his brakes as traffic stopped in front of him going westbound. His half-ton pickup slid across the double line hitting West's car headon.

Mrs. Peggy Farrington, 29, of 1422 153rd Avenue, San Leandro, was injured in a one-car accident near the same location.

Patrolmen said she apparently misread the road signs and her car entered the construction area, overturning on an embankment.

She was admitted to Contra Costa County Hospital at Martinez for treatment of shock and multiple bruises.

Two deer crossed the road, two cars crashed and two people were injured at two minutes after midnight Sunday.

According to the California Highway Patrol, the accident occurred on Jonas Hill Road.

Fran Oliver told police he was northbound on Jonas Hill when he saw a deer leap from the bushes. He braked hard to avoid striking the animal.

Following Oliver was Barbara Engstrom, 21, of Lucinda Lane, Walnut Creek. She also saw a deer (a different one) and in swerving to avoid it piled into the Oliver vehicle, officers said.

Suffering superficial injuries in the crash were Barbara and a passenger, Judit Gorman, 21, of 15 Pleasant Valley Drive.

Both deer escaped injury.

Women in The Sun

TIME FOR MUSIC art and fun is included in this homemaker's busy schedule. Shown playing a duet with son Robert, 8, is Mrs. Verne O. Rutledge of 1535 Arbutus Drive Walnut Creek, who is this week's feature lady.

Homemaking Important; Proudest Occupation

All too often the words "just a housewife" are spoken in a deprecatory tone of voice when they should be spoken with pride and joy, shouted from the rooftops if necessary for just recognition.

Today's feature lady, chosen because she is "just a housewife," is typical of the fine women on the job 24 hours a day with no overtime, vacations or sick leave.

Ida M. Rutledge, wife and mother, homemaker superb, also includes community service for others in her full life. Ida and her husband Verne have lived in Walnut Creek for six years, but prior to that lived in Garden Grove, California.

Mother of four, age 16, 15, 8 and 4½, Mrs. Rutledge started her community service as a Girl Scout Assistant Leader when daughter Ann was in grade 2. She served as room mother, room mother chairman, and secretary of the Marie L. Haire School, Garden Grove, and was active in the Iota Chapter Zeta Sigma Phi.

Since living in Walnut Creek at 1537 Arbutus Drive, this versatile homemaker has served as an assistant den mother for son John with Pack 243, is currently serving as Den mother for son Robert with Pack 206. Her most recent community service was active participation with her neighborhood group in the John Muir Hospital Neighborhood Fund raising drive.

Quietly pitching in to help where help is needed, her service to others is unheralded, but essential. Adept as any executive in handling myriad details, Mrs. Rutledge can serve as secretary-bookkeeper for her husband as efficiently as she bakes a cake.

Never losing sight of the importance of a happy home, her outside activities have not interfered with her family. The home is always open to her children's friends, the cookie jar full, and appetizing meals ready on time.

Daughter Ann, recently installed as president of the Junior Native Daughters of the Golden West, Unit 33, was awarded a trophy as the outstanding girl in the Junior Daughters last year, won a statewide essay contest and is a member of the Suburbanettes. John, active in sports, busy with a paper route, Robert learning to be a good cub and little Bill are all reasons why Ida Rutledge is proud to be a housewife.

To establish a happy secure home, to train and educate children, to maintain a serene disposition in today's world of automation and frustration is no easy task. Ida Rutledge has accomplished this despite the fact she must often face emergencies alone, for husband Verne a structural line worker must often spend days at a stretch away from home.

No, there is nothing spectacular about Ida Rutledge and her busy full life. It is similar to that of millions of women hard at work being good homemakers, the most important profession in existence.

HAWAIIAN LEIS AND FLORA will bring the enchanting atmosphere of the Islands to the Elks Club on November 28, when the Junior Women's Club presents "Hawaiian Winter" the annual fund raising ball for the Juniors. Beautification Group Sets Tuesday Meeting

The Orinda Beautification Committee will meet Tuesday at 7:30 at the Moraga Valley Nursery.

All members of the committee are urged to come as plans and dates will be made for winter planting. A sub-commitee will meet with county officials this week to discuss these plans.

AT THE LAST meeting in October, the committee decided that the olive tree should become the tree of Orinda. More trees will be planted on the village side of Orinda.

Because of the driest year in 50 years, many of the seedlings planted by the community last January could not be saved. Certain groups such as Scout Troops 237 and 207 should be commended for the conscientious job of maintenance that they carried out.

The survival of 125 trees will be the basis for planting next January.

AS WILLIAM PENN MOTT stated at the outset, "This should be thought of as a continuing freeway planting program. Some years will be more successful than others. and it may take five years to do the job."

Small areas on the freeway will be assigned to interested groups, such as garden clubs, Boy or Girl Scout groups, or improvement associations, that feel they can not only plant the area but provide basic maintenance.

Tom Sibary can be contacted for details of this plan. The El Toyonal intersection has already been spoken for by one Scout group.

KEEPING ORINDA CLEAN is a problem which will be given top priority by the committee this year.

At the last meeting Mrs. A. P. Reck suggested that until professional help can be hired, the use of larger, more efficient trash containers should be worked out with the Orinda Chamber of Commerce.

A "community-service clean-up program" might also be worked out on a bi-monthly basis with Scouts.

Members of the committee and the organizations they represent are as follows:

Orinda Chamber of Commerce, Stanley Allen and Ramsay Underwood; Rotary Club, Stanley Allen; Lions Club, Robert Waschmirth; Junior Chamber of Commerce, John Miller; Orinda Association Planning Committee, Tom Sibary; Orinda Woman's Club, Mrs. Walter Edmonds; American Association of University Women, Orinda Branch, Mrs. John Gilmore and Mrs. Fred Rust; Orinda Valley Garden Club, Mrs. Robert Patmont; Hilltop Garden Club, Mrs. A. P. Reck.

Orinda Garden Club, Mrs. B. W. West and Mrs. Paul Pollaczek; Town and Country Garden Club, Mrs. Michael Wood; Orinda Art Center, Mrs. Ralph T. Hickcox; M. Babcock; advisors, William California Roadside Council, Penn Mott and Dr. Ralph Hall; James Hupp; California Conser-and representatives-at-large of vation Council, Mrs. Basil Wins-improvement associations, Norlow; landscape architect, Robertman Tuttle and Neill Porter.

Country Club Work Begins

Construction has begun on the new "Round Hill" country club, with 18 hole golf course, clubhouse, large swimming pool and 410 acres a mile and a half east of Alamo for expansion of a 100-home residential development to 418 homes.

The entire project will involve an investment of about $20 millions, according to Harlan S. Geldermann, president of Round Hill Enterprises.

The land is on Stone Valley Road, between Walnut Creek and Danville, and is close to the Walnut Creek Bypass, which is nearing completion.

GELDERMANN said, "This choice property, which is situated in the most desirable section of the San Ramon Valley, has long been regarded as the finest property in the area, and is ideally suited for this project, with its gentle rolling, studded hills.

John Sparrowk, East Bay manufacturer and financier, is president of Round Hill Estates, and is active in the organization and direction of the project.

Other owners are Joseph H. Dwilla, Paul Spagnoli, Stanley Burroughs, all of San Francisco and Milton Bloom of Los Angeles.

Directors of the Country Club are Sparrowk, president; William Rigney, manager, San Francisco Giants; Don Dormer, vice president, Central Valley Bank; Ralph Coffey, attorney and Harlan S. Geldermann, president, Geldermann Realtors.

FINANCING arrangements are complete.

Work has already started on the golf course, which has been designed and is under the direct supervision of architect Lawrence Hughes.

He has designed many golf courses, including Thunderbird and Eldorado in the Palm Springs area, Paradise Valley in Phoenix and the Desert Inn in Las Vegas, Geldermann said.

Hughes said "Round Hill" will compare in quality with the best facilities in the country, and that several of the holes are distinctively individual in character. Completion will be mid-summer of next year.

WE HAVE BEEN particularly pleased with its interesting topography, studded with huge oak trees. Normally it would take many years to accomplish the pleasant and scenic environment of this kind of landscaping," said Hughes.

"When completed, the course will lend itself to championship tournaments, and yet will not be difficult for high handicap players.

Moreover, the terrain is conducive to the use of carts for those who wish to take it easy," he continued.

With the golf course will be erected a clubhouse and recreational facilities, including a large swimming pool, designed by William F. Cody, who designed many country clubs including Thunderbird, Eldorado, Tamarisk, De Anza, Palo Alto Hills and Villa Real Golfotel in Havana, Cuba.

INITIAL membership in the country club wil be available to 400 proprietary charter members, with golf privileges, subject to reasonable regulations on playing times for women and juniors.

Dr. Seaborg Is Winner Of 1959 AEC Fermi Award

For the second time in three weeks, Central Contra Costa County can boast of the receipt of one of the world's top scientific honors.

Dr. Glenn T. Seaborg, 47-year-old chancellor of the University of California's Berkeley campus, last weekend was named the winner of the coveted $50,000 1959 Fermi Award of the Atomic Energy Commission—the highest scientific award given by the United States government.

THREE WEEKS earlier, Dr. Emilio Segre was named one of two recipients of the 1959 Nobel Physics Prize for his efforts in the discovery of the antiproton.

Both scientists are residents of Lafayette. Dr. Seaborg lives at 1154 Glen Road with his wife and six children, the youngest of which was born just three weeks ago.

Chancellor at the Berkeley campus since March, Dr. Seaborg had previously won a Nobel Prize in chemistry for his 1940 discovery of plutonium and other heavy, synthetic elements.

AS AN INDICATION of the brilliance of Dr. Seaborg's achievements, he was but 28 years old when he joined with Dr. Edwin McMillan, present director of the Lawrence Radiation Laboratory, in the discovery of plutonium. Drs. Seaborg and McMillan shared the Nobel Prize in 1951.

In 1941, when the Ishpeming, Michigan, native was only 29 years old, he was the co-discoverer of fissionable isotopes.

Dr. Seaborg will receive the Fermi Award, which includes a medal and a citation along with the $50,000, during ceremonies in Washington, D.C., December 2. The date marks the 17th anniversary of Dr. Enrico Fermi's discovery that nuclear fission can be controlled.

DR. FERMI, HIMSELF a Nobel Prize winner, was the Italian-born University of Chicago physicist who worked on the Manhattan Project during World War II. Dr. Segre was a protege of Dr. Fermi.

John A. McCone, chairman of the AEC, announced that Dr. Seaborg's nomination was the unanimous choice of the AEC Advisory Committee and was approved by President Eisenhower.

In addition to noting his great discoveries in the field of nuclear chemistry, the Fermi Award citation discusses Dr. Seaborg's less spectacular achievements which may, in the long run, prove even more useful.

THE CITATION said, in part, "Many students have received their training in nuclear chemistry as well as inspiration and enthusiasm for a scientific career from Dr. Seaborg . . . American science is stronger in many respects because of the outstanding contributions of Dr. Seaborg."

Dr. Seaborg, who has been called "an educator's educator and a scientist's scientist," holds the academic rank of professor of chemistry and is associate director of the Lawrence Radiation Laboratory in addition to serving as chancellor and chief governing official of the Berkeley campus.

As a matter of fact, he teaches courses in nuclear chemistry to graduate students.

THREE WEEKS AGO, Dr. Seaborg received the medal of honor of the University of Moscow from three top Soviet scientists who visited the University of California.

Seaborg's distinguished career has had highlights in other fields beside science. For example, he represented the university on the now defunct Pacific Coast Conference and he is active in the

Fast Draw Is For Real on Main Street

It was a question of who could reach his gun first, when Walnut Creek Officer S. A. Wilson stopped a car Sunday night at Duncan and North Main Street.

As Wilson opened the door of the car, the driver, Edward Babcock of Pleasanton, reached for a .22 revolver under the seat, the officer reported.

Only by leveling his own .38 revolver did Wilson pursuade Babcock to change his mind, he added.

Babcock, who pleaded guilty to being drunk in a public street in the local justice court, was given the alternative of a $75 fine or 10 days in the county jail.

The offender was well provisioned, Wilson said.

He had with him two $1 bills with blood stains on them, a ladies watch with band broken, a woman's 14-karat wedding ring, three rusty pocket knives and seven .22 caliber bullets.

With Babcock were Eugene Gregory Fischer of Martinez, and Calvin Eugene Murphy of North Sacramento, both of whom were released.

The three had two shotguns with them, and a large amount of shells, Wilson said.

He added the three had started out on a hunting trip, but ended up visiting several Walnut Creek bars instead.

Discipline of Children Is A Family Responsibility

Our school districts have clarified their stand on corporal punishment. With only one exception, the policy is uniform. Spankings may be administered if the school principal feels that it is necessary.

Such is the policy in Orinda, Lafayette, Walnut Creek and all of Pleasant Hill, both on the elementary school and high school levels.

The only exception is the Alamo School District which has not yet adopted a formal discipline policy.

This action on the part of the school districts follows legislation last year which permits each school district to make its own decision on capital punishment.

NOW THAT A policy has been formulated and started, it might be well to take a look at the situation and see exactly what it means to us, and to our children, because most of use have children in school, or will have shortly.

From the point of view of the school people it must be remembered that discipline is a very serious matter. If Johnny throws a tantrum at home, he disrupts only one household, and even then he can be isolated.

But if he does the same thing at school he interferes with the education and morale of perhaps 40 other students. Obviously this cannot be tolerated.

And furthermore, if he gets away with it, the other children will grasp the fact that they can do the same thing and the possibility of any true educational material filtering into the minds in the classrooms will be drastically diminished.

We must remember that there may be occasions when our children get out of hand, and a good smack on the rear end is the only thing that will solve the problem.

BUT THERE IS A more important factor to this whole problem. Just whose responsibility is the disciplining of our children?

The primary function of our school is education. There is time, of course, for many of the refinements that go along with education . . . social graces, the learning to live and work with others that is essential to all of us.

But manners and discipline is primarily a family affair. If our children are reared properly at home, they should not have to face any serious disciplinary problems at school.

IF THEY ARE not reared properly at home, then it follows that the burden of seeing that they do not disturb the social organization in which they operate falls on others.

But we should not require the schools to take over the problem that is an essential function of the family.

The schools must have the power to maintain discipline in order that they may accomplish their ends.

So if we find ourselves personally involved with a school system and a disciplinary matter regarding our children, it would be well to remember where the responsibility lies.

Discipline is a family matter.

It Could Save You Money

Never one to scoff at the value of a dollar, it has occurred to us that perhaps every taxpayer in the county would be interested in ideas and suggestions which will make his tax dollar go farther.

Careful consideration should be given to a recent proposal by the County Taxpayers Association which would lead to improvement in fire protection and the administration of fire districts in the county.

Briefly, the proposal favors a county-wide master plan of firehouse locations, a new study of fire district boundary realignment based on geographic conditions and other factors, uniform financial administration, centralized budget control of fire districts by the county administrator and systematic liaison between the supervisors and the various fire districts.

There are some possibilities included in these recommendations which could go a long way to cutting the costs of fire protection—and thereby cutting your tax bill.

FOR EXAMPLE, the establishment of uniform specifications for purchases and their centralization under the county purchasing agent, would be possible.

Certainly there is duplication of effort now, to say the least, in the purchasing efforts of our various fire districts. The savings of purchasing through one source for all districts, on a uniform basis, should be obvious.

And not only would it be cheaper, it should be much more efficient and provide better material which could be purchased in quantity.

It has also been suggested and inventory of all fire district property and equipment should be taken, and a centralized property management control be established.

THIS SEEMS sensible and should avoid duplication of equipment.

All of these procedures could result in savings on "little" items, which any businessman or housewife knows, add up considerably.

However, there are some "big" items too that could save the taxpayer—that's each one of us—hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Under the present conditions, where we have many fire districts, each district is responsible for its own area, and locates fire houses where equipment will be most accessable in case of emergency.

THE SITUATION has occurred where two different districts have erected fire stations quite close to each other, each in an effort to provide coverage to a remote portion of its own district.

Through a master plan of fire house location, through a central authority, many "unnecessary" fire houses might be eliminated. This could result in tremendous savings on your tax bill, because fire houses don't come cheap.

It is hard to realize, as you drive down the street, that you personally have paid for each school building, street and firehouse. You have, that is, if you pay taxes.

Therefore, any savings on these "big" items, are direct savings for you.

Certainly these proposals are worthy of careful study by the county board of supervisors.

It could save you dollars on your tax bill.

Right to Know—Its Limits

By NORMAN COLBY

Holding an important piece of information in his hand and seeing a newspaper reporter walk through the office door, a county, city or service district employee may bite his lip—debating.

Should I tell the reporter about this new piece of news, or quietly file it away where it can "do no harm?"

If he asks about it, shall I clam up?

The reporter seems to be a decent chap, I'll admit.

The information is of public interest. No doubt about that.

BUT WILL MY BOSS approve? There might be disadvantages. My job might be at stake.

In the few seconds it takes for the reporter to casually but purposefully stroll over to the counter, the employee makes up his (or her) mind—sometimes one way, sometimes the other.

Newspapermen have their views on this—but how does California Governor Pat Brown, who heads a pyramid of ten thousand-plus employees, feel about it?

In a memoranda to state department heads this week he said:

"ANY FACTUAL QUESTIONS asked of a department or agency by a reporter should be answered immediately, and directly.

"That applies not only to heads of departments, but to subordinates as well. There need be no prior communication with me or my staff.

". . . I do not want censorship of any kind," Brown continued.

"I am informed that the principal concern of most representatives of newspapers, radio and television is that they fear self-censorship might be caused by uncertainty or timidity about the ultimate reactions of higher officials.

"SUCH CENSORSHIP is just as dangerous to democracy as any censorship actually exercised by top officials, and the public's right to know is thus frequently infringed by indirection.

"I don't want this to happen in this administration."

Another key paragraph: "Each department is free to issue releases on any matter concerning that agency on the authority of its own director. Departmental releases need not be channeled through the Governor's office.

"This does not change my long-standing position that directors must discuss major policy matters with me before a final decision is made . . ."

Governor Brown said his memorandum was written due to the "present uncertainty" at all levels of state government administration. This is to clear up the matter.

THERE MAY BE a loophole here.

What about the situation where the public's "right to know" is frustrated by the reporter's inability to ask the crucial question, and also where the employee's ". . . timidity about the ultimate reactions of higher officials" includes his own department head?

Is this not a more subtle type of censorship, which is based on the employee's lack of initiative, in addition to the reporter's shortcomings?

When the department head says "no publicity on this," is it the employee's duty to say, in effect, "You guess the right question, reporter, or else the public has no right to know?"

Which is worse? For the employee to take the initiative unwisely, relying on the good sense of the newspapers—or in the name of department "cooperation" habitually pocket information which might help the taxpayer evaluate his beneficiaries and their activities?

"IT GOES Too Fast. We don't have time to look at one another." —from "Our Town" by Thornton Wilder.

OUR TOWN . . . like Topsy, just Growed, still Growing—a cozy cocoon wrapped in a protective cloth of conformity, motivating man & his matron to take a mad Merry-Go-Round ride that has them helplessly hypnotized hoping to catch that big Brass Ring!

OUR TOWN . . . Cushion of solid comfort, born with a silver spoon in its mouth, a Silver Cord wrapped all around, all moonlit & rosey, all revelry & rivalry.

OUR TOWN & It's Time—Of the Tempis Fugit flurry scurry hurry, the automatic timer & the automatic washer, the automatic hypocrite & the automatic dissenter.

Time of the TV Dinner, Instant Foods . . . & the Instant Smile. The Late Husband & the Late Show. The time of Real Estate & the Unreal State . . . The clock & the calendar keeping time by the coffee hour, the cocktail hour, the scout schedule & the committee meetings.

IS IT the Town of your Love & the Time of your Life keeping UP with the Joneses, keeping DOWN with the Controversy? Of Individuals standing UP & Conformists sitting DOWN & the Middle-of-the-Roaders standing back . . . to wait & watch?

Of more people, more problems, more panel discussions about more people, more problems & why is it the first step in making progress & making plans always calls for making COOKIES?

LAND of Plenty . . . Plenty playing cards — like Bridge & Canasta, Bankamerica, the Diner's Club, American Express, plenty people, plenty problems, plenty bills, & plenty poor credit ratings. Diminishing mortgages & increasing taxes!

OUR TOWN . . . of the Little Leaguers, the Junior Leaguers, the Eager Beavers & the Ivy Leaguers. Of the Coffees, the Teas & the Charities—that lead to checkbook disparities.

OUR TOWN where we're all too busy, being busy & complaining, but none of us do anything about it. Except when some of us climb off the Merry-Go-Round & give up our runaway steeds to somebody else until THEY retrench or take a sabbatical!

OUR TOWN . . . where most of us don't ever know what's happening NEXT door & where we give ourselves to so many civic accomplishments we sometimes forget to give ourselves to our OWN, at home.

OUR TOWN & the Livin' Is Easy. The freezer full of food, the swimpool full of chlorine, the fireplace full of logs, the ears full of FM, Hi Fi & Stereo . . . over which some of us are absolutely Delireo!

TIME OF THE SEMANTIC, the Status & the Symbol, the Stratas & their Seekers!

Time of the transistor & the tranquilizer, with 2-car families, sometimes 3, & TV sets in every room.

YOUR TOWN & MINE . . . of freeways & spreeways, of dozing bulls & bull-dozings. Of too many gas stations & a flotsam-jetsam jumble of buildings laid out anyplace—for a Fast Buck!

OUR TOWN . . . of the Built-in hills, the built-in bills, the built-in ovens & the all-electric kitchen w/a built-in Wife who can't or doesn't have time to cook because she's Chairman of the Cookbook Committee for the annual Christmas Bazaar.

THERE we are! OUR TOWN of too many nice people going in too many circles & wishing they weren't. In such a rush they just skim the cream off one another & never delve deeper because they don't have time.

Thornton Wilder was right. Oh, Brother!

We don't have time to look at one another!

Dear Editor:

We're all up in the air about cranberries being sprayed with a deadly spray.

How come the same fervor for stopping nuclear tests has not taken place?

Probably because the Atomic Energy Commission has been derelict in its duty in not setting up a comprehensive program for determining the radioactive content of cereals, vegetables and fruit, or even of milk.

In the few samplings that have been made, radioactivity has often exceeded even the old "permissible" level.

"Why has no investigation been made of the administration of the fallout program? . . .

Letters to The Editor

Dear Editor:

The campaign for annexation of Pleasant Hill to Walnut Creek has now reached the heights of financial double-talk.

As an interested citizen with many years of familiarity and experience with Pleasant Hill, I must protest the annexation proponents' soft-pedaling of the major problems and the insertion of questionable "fringe" benefits.

As a professional accountant and businessman, I would like to point out the fallacy of these claims.

First, we are told by both the proponents and the City of Walnut Creek that we can have free street lighting for the asking. Where the money is coming from is not explained. It costs approximately $100,000 per year to light the City of Concord, with about the same population as Pleasant Hill. The proposed budget for Pleasant Hill, we are told, is self-sustaining, but nowhere is there a provision for such a major item.

Second, the same two parties are neatly adjusting the tax rate by a supposed lower garbage collection cost. The Valley Scavengers Co. is charging $1.00 per month in Walnut Creek and $1.50 outside the city. Concord's rate is $1.45 per month, on a 12 year contract.

The hard business fact is that the most lucrative portion of this service is the tightly knit retail section of Walnut Creek. Rates for businesses are calculated on volume of refuse.

This revenue is enhanced by a high percentage of reclaimable junk. When the scavengers move into residential areas the cost per collection goes up sharply due to the many miles covered, additional equipment needed, and the time spent from the curb to the garbage can.

Under the present small population of Walnut Creek, the garbage company can afford to take a loss on residential business to retain the more lucrative business collections. With the advent of an additional 30,000 residential users, it is absolutely inevitable that collection costs will go up.

Third, we are told that all our recreation problems will be solved and we will be able to eliminate the entire 50c tax rate of the recreation district and still receive the same level of service plus the much needed improvements. Again, a study of the budget discloses provision for maintenance service only, without consideration for facilities in any respect. The loan of $148,000 now carried by the district is necessary whether or not Pleasant Hill annexes, and a lot more is required.

Incidentally, in this respect another half-truth has been released. It is claimed that 10 cents on the tax rate will pay off this indebtedness. Actually, it will require closer to 16 cents or 17 cents.

On top of this, Pleasant Hill will receive no credit for over a quarter of a million dollars of owned property.

Fourth, it is claimed that the library tax will be eliminated. Actually, this tax applies to everyone, except the City of Richmond, and we will pay it in the city or not.

I propose that a board of impartial acocuntants and outside businessmen be called immediately to try to present a balance sheet using the correct figures. Do not include amateur politicians or others who believe that we can spend more than we receive.

Personally, I don't think it will balance by many hundreds of thousand dollars.

CULTURE

Dear Editor:

The Diablo Pageant of Arts Society wishes to thank and congratulate The Sun and particularly Larry Glazier on his excellent article, "Stay Home and Be Cultured," in the November 6 edition.

The Diablo area actually has more artists working at every level of proficiency than any other place in the West. These artists range from amateurs enrolled in adult education classes to professional teaching at the University of California. And the term "artists" does not necessarily denote "painters"; it also includes those working in mosaics, ceramics, graphic arts, weaving, photography, sculpture, jewelry, floral arts, drama, literature, dancing, singing and music.

In addition to staging the May Pageant of Arts, the Society also serves as an art commission for the Diablo area. We offer our assistance to other art organizations or groups including art in their programs.

We will aid them in hanging their shows, as we have the Flicker unit of the Mount Diablo Therapy Center, or cosponsor a gallery, as we are doing with the Rancho San Miguel Clubhouse Gallery, or loan paintings and panels. Paintings, mosaics, ceramics and jewelry are also displayed for sale at our own gallery and headquarters at 1533 N. Main in Walnut Creek. As Mr. Glazier stated, we draw our subscribers and audience from the entire region.

The Society's ultimate aim is the establishment of a cultural center with workshop facilities, a gallery and auditorium for the Contra Costa area.

Here Is An Old Problem With Some New Facts

By HERMAN SILVERMAN

Today let's discuss service stations — too many service stations!

I tremble with fear as I again write about the service station problem. Over a year ago the roof almost fell in when I tackled the subject. The oil companies were unhappy with this column.

In addition, some good citizens criticized us because they felt we were advocating government regulation of the locations of service stations. They said that our free enterprise economy would control the number of service stations built in our community.

A bit of history

The Sun's opinion, a year ago, was that oil companies should use self-restraint in establishing new stations. At that time, it was obvious that our community had too many. New ones were being built; existing ones were being enlarged. Oil companies were outbidding other businesses for prime locations.

This posed a problem of intelligent land use . . . of town appearance . . . and of sound business practice.

What happens to the poor guy who leases a station? He invests his money; he works 16 hours a day; he faces gas wars which reduce his profits, if any. More and more stations are built and his business is spread. He frequently is forced to quit — or go broke. And the oil company finds another sucker.

What about now?

I wrote of this some months ago. Has the situation changed?

Heck no! More and more stations are being built; more stations are being enlarged into adjoining property; more are going broke.

Let's look at Orinda. Several years ago there wasn't one station in the few blocks between the Crossroads and the Village. Today there are four in a row, one just having changed hands. At the Crossroads there are four more and another in the Village.

Within the very small city limits of Walnut Creek, about thirty stations await you, with a new one on its way. Outside the city limits — who knows?

In the Pleasant Hill area, there are over 30. (We counted 33 but say "30" just to be conservative.)

Little Danville has its Gasoline Alley, too, with 11 stations almost in a row.

Do we need more?

Let's now look at Lafayette. I count 15 stations. Some are constantly changing hands. And two new ones are soon to be started. One is a Seaside at the Pleasant Hill Interchange; a Richfield — near Brown Avenue and Mt. Diablo — is the other.

Not too many years ago, Richfield built a station in Lafayette. A postman told me it changed hands seven times. Recently it became a Hancock Station. And yet a Richfield representative states that is a great demand for a Richfield station in Lafayette.

I am not picking on Richfield; all the companies are equally to blame.

What is the answer?

I don't know.

But recently Supervisor Mel Nielsen said he has asked the County Planning Staff to investigate the possibility of establishing some zoning control. Mel is a service station operator and knows the problem.

What is the law?

Today an oil company can build a station if the land is zoned for business. The county, however, has granted permits for stations outside business-zoned areas. Some cities require land use permits and have some control.

I hate to think that we must turn to government regulation. But certainly the oil industry is not showing good faith in its expansion program. If regulation comes, they will have brought it upon themselves.

You may have noticed that I have not gone into the aesthetics of service station architecture. The companies can build good looking stations — if they want to.

I visited Palo Alto recently and noted that most stations were quite handsome. Because the people in Orinda have raised their voices, most of the stations are well designed. But not in the rest of the area.

In Lafayette, the Design Project is attempting to improve the appearance of the town. Shell Oil flatly refused to cooperate, even said they wouldn't put a planting box in front of the station. Richfield representative refuses to consider a nice looking building for its unneeded station. The Design Project committee is determined to fight this issue.

Well, these are some problems. What do you think?

SCOUTING

Dear Editor:

Your article on Cub Scouts was very interesting, and I am convinced that eight is too young to start as a Cub—nine is young enough.

I believe there are three basic reasons why more Cubs do not go into scouting.

FIRST, three years is too long, and many boys tire of the Cubbing program and just lose interest.

Second, good Webelos dens are few and far between, and a poor or non-existent Webelos den causes many boys to lose interest.

Third, many parents simply will not do their share, and a few adults in the pack are doing it all, with the result that the sons of the non-participating parents have no incentive to go on into the Scouts.

THIS LAST reason will no doubt cause a lot of surprise and comment, but I am speaking from two years experience as a Cubmaster. This town would truly be a "ghost town" if all the people would be gone, who said they would be unable to perform a requested task because of traveling.

As for Webelos dens—participation of every Webelos Dad is required for a "top notch" den in order to retain the boys' interest. Last Spring, we had a first class Webelos den run by a very competent and energetic dad. ALL Fathers participated, including myself even though I was the Cubmaster.

The den met every two weeks; half the meetings were pleasure trips and events, the other half of the meetings were spent working on the Webelos requirements. This den went to Dodge Ridge, swimming in Berkeley, five mile hike in Muir Woods, etc.

SIX OF THE fathers checked the den out at its last meeting on the Tenderfoot requirements. The "espirit de corps" of the den became so high that they won a parent participation award at a pack meeting. (More parents present on a percentage basis than any other den in the pack.)

This is almost unheard of in a pack. Most of the boys are now attending troop meetings regularly. Your sons did not have such a den to hold their interest, and if my memory serves me right you as a Webelos Den Dad were not one of the participators.

When I was appointed Cubmaster, I could not have known less about Cubbing. I was never a Scout or a Scouter, so I had to really start from scratch. I took all the courses offered by Mt. Diablo Council and I was the only one in the Meridian District to complete all of them that season (at least that is what the Boy Scouts told me at the time).

I AM NOT attempting to glorify myself, but to point out the apathy which exists among our Dads; for there should have been quite a few leaders take all the courses offered from a district as large as ours.

The Den Mothers, in general, have been great, but with the exception of a few dads, (whose work was superb—thank heavens), the dads have failed the Cub Scout program.

School Districts Pick New 'Organization' Members

Three members were elected last night (after The Sun went to press) to the 11-member Contra Costa County Committee on School District Organization, a body which is required by new legislation to draw a county master plan for school district unification by September 1963.

One representative each from the 32 school districts met at Sid's, Concord, preceding the annual meeting of school board members—to fill three vacancies.

Terms of Mrs. Charles Price, Jr., of Walnut Creek, Donald Shepherd of Pittsburg and Frank Brady of Rodeo expired.

Other members are Dr. Jack Shahbazian of Alamo, Bert Davi of Pittsburg, Wilfred Carpenter of Brentwood, Phillip Millspaugh of Richmond, Mrs. Margaret Plummer of Martinez, W. M. Leath of Concord, Frank E. Loher of El Cerrito and Thomas Leedham of Antioch.

The committee is composed of one representative each of the six high school and three unified districts and two at large.

At present the committee is studying proposed unification in the area of Acalanes Union High School District.

Since 1948, when the first school district organization study was required, the committee has undertaken studies in all areas of high school districts. On its recommendation the voters of the 13 former school districts within the area of Mt. Diablo High School District approved unification.

Assistant County Superintendent Harold De Fraga said the legislation adopted by the 1959 Legislature provides that if the county committee does not complete a master plan of unification by 1963, the State Department of Education will do so by 1965.

RabidSkunks Found Close To Home

"Two more rabid skunks were diagnosed by the County Health Department Laboratory this week," Dr. John Baier, assistant health officer, announced.

He added that though both were found close to people's homes, to his knowledge neither had been involved with humans or family pets.

Both skunks came from areas where other rabid animals have been found since July 1 of this year.

One from the Knightsen area, where a rabid dog was discovered in September, and the other was the second found in Port Chicago in the past few months.

This makes a total of ten rabid animals diagnosed in our county in the past 4½ months — nine skunks and one dog.

Dr. Baier urged all dog owners to have their dogs immunized against rabies as soon as possible.

"The threat of human rabies is not only present, but seems to be increasing," Dr. Baier said.

He asked that citizens report to the Animal Control Center any wild animal who seems either quite vicious or unusually tame. Rabid animals commonly lose their fear of humans as the disease progresses and may wander aimlessly into yards, homes and school playgrounds.

Alamo Youth Speaks to County BOE

A 17-year-old senior student at San Ramon Valley Union High School, Phil Fay, spoke on "The Pursuit of Excellence in Education" at the annual meeting of the county's school board members last night at Concord.

Young Fay followed speakers representing the viewpoint of the board member, parent, school administrator and teacher and he spoke for the student on the kind of teacher, curriculum, grouping, etc., that contribute to excellence in education.

He is the son of Phillip Fay, Alamo businessman, and Mrs. Fay, and he is a product of the Stone Valley School, Alamo. He is president of the student body and plays end in football and guard in basketball.

A college preparatory student, Fay plans to attend Stanford or the University of Washington.

More than 100 board members and administrators of Contra Costa County school districts attended the annual dinner at Sid's.

R. L. Patriquin of Pittsburg, member of the County Board of Education, was master of ceremonies and Dr. Charles Haworth, superintendent of Pittsburg Unified School District, was moderator.

Reunion Due

Mrs. Lois (Tucker) Coleman of 22260 Whyte Park Avenue, Walnut Creek, is taking reservations for the 20-year reunion of the Fremont High School class of 1939, she has announced.

The reunion will be held at the Claremont Hotel, Berkeley, in April. Several graduates are residents of the central county, she said.

Santa Arrives in Broadway Drawn by Reindeer Nov 28

Santa will arrive in the Broadway Shopping Center November 28 at 2 p.m., according to George Webster, chairman of the Broadway Merchants Association.

Highlighting the arrival of Ol' Saint Nick will be his sled which will be drawn by six reindeer from Santa's Village, Webster added.

"Broadway has been planning the arrival of Santa Claus for some time and merchants throughout the center have set aside two extra special days to welcome the "grand old man back to town," Webster commented.

"Along with the arrival of our old friend, Santa Claus, merchants have decided to have an extra special sale of quality goods at more than reasonable prices," the chairman asserted.

"Why not bring the whole family down to Broadway and help welcome Santa," Webster concluded.

Stores in the Broadway Shopping Center are open six days a week Monday through Saturday and two evenings, Monday and Friday. Starting December 7, stores in the center will be open every night Monday through Friday until Christmas.

'No Apologies' Says Nejedly

"I have no apologies to make or enforcing the law as it is. If the people want to change the law, they can do this through their legislature," District Attorney John Nejedly told members of the Pleasant Hill and Concord Jaycees, Monday night.

He continued, "I am not the supreme court, to interpret this and that law, and whether it should be enforced.

"If that were the case, there would be in effect 58 different laws on each subject in the state's 58 counties.

"The deputy was told a caller that cakewalks are illegal was correct, and I would have given the same opinion.

Nejedly added, "The district attorney is the chief law enforcement officer of the county, but the attorney general can move in if the district attorney is not doing his job. The oath I took as district attorney was to enforce the laws.

"This is not a bluenose attitude, but the only way to go about doing the job right," he concluded.

'Poison Is Inexcusable' Says Blum of Berries

Contra Costa County will not prohibit the sale of cranberries although County Health Officer, Dr. H. L. Blum has commented, ". . . any added poison is inexcusable in foodstuffs."

Blum said that neither the Federal or State governments have stopped the movement of contaminated cranberries, and the county will follow the State Health Department's recommendations.

Blum said, "Laboratory tests have been conducted on cranberries and it is the judgment of the State Health Department that although aminotriazole is present in some batches of fresh and canned berries, it does not constitute a public health hazard in the quantities found."

He added, "There are no local facilities to test for the presence or absence of aminotriazole and batches for sale here cannot be tested in this county."

Nixon Group Has Locals

Several area residents are members of the Nixon for President committee, which has been recently formed in Northern California.

They are Donald D. Doyle and Harmon K. Howard, both of Walnut Creek, Mrs. Hal Bates, Luther H. Lincoln and Jack Pedder, all of Lafayette, James Moriarty and Mrs. Donald Krotz, both of Orinda.

Joins Jurs Staff

Blaine Dorsett, former regional fleet sales manager for General Motors Corporation in Chicago, has joined the sales staff of Jurs Motor Company, Cadillac - Oldsmobile dealer in Walnut Creek.

Robert Jurs, owner of the agency, said, "Dorsett's experience in automotive sales, service and customer relations will help us to better serve the people of this area in all their automotive needs."

Looking for a Job? Try New State Office in WC

The California State Department of Employment has opened a permanent office, three days a week, in the Walnut Creek city hall chambers.

Manager John P. Flannery, who will alternate between his home office in Pittsburg and Walnut Creek, said the office will be open Mondays, Tuesdays and Thursdays from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The office will serve both the employer and the job seeker. There will be a complete recruitment, screening, testing and placement service, he said. Phone number is YE 5-5500.

MRS. BEVERLY BUFFA will be the placement interviewer, and Mrs. Dora Kimball her assistant.

Flannery said, "Both City Manager Laverne Kimball and the Chamber of Commerce were very receptive to our locating here.

"Will will serve people and employers in Walnut Creek, Lafayette, Orinda, Moraga, Martinez and Concord.

"This is purely a placement office. There will be no handling of unemployment insurance claims here.

"WE WILL HELP people find Christmas jobs, in addition to permanent jobs, and there is no age limit as far as we are concerned."

He added, "Of course, it is difficult to find work for children under 16, and sometimes difficult for those in the 16 to 18 bracket. But we will try.

"We also work with the Oakland and San Francisco offices in that where an employer can't find the right person here, we contact those offices. And also there an employer in the city can't find the right one, we are contacted.

"Right now, there seems to be a shortage of domestics, also engineers, good secretaries, stenos and first-class clerk typists.

Christmas Seal Letters in Mail

More than 100,000 Christmas Seal letters are being delivered to homes in Contra Costa County, according to Mrs. George W. Chapman of Antioch, Christmas Seal chairman of the Contra Costa Tuberculosis and Health Association.

All over the nation Christmas Seals are arriving in homes today as the traditional annual fund raising campaign in the fight against TB opens.

"Over eight million lives have been saved since the first Christmas Seal was sold, but the saving of lives is not enough," said Mrs. Chapman.

"We must see to it that every family is spared the suffering and tragedy of this long-term, chronic illness.

"Proceeds from this year's Christmas Seal campaign must do more than maintain our present TB control activities," Mrs. Chapman added.

"We must expand our efforts to find all the unknown cases of TB lurking in this community. We must increase our efforts to help ex-TB patients get back on their feet and stay there.

"We must extend our educational program so that people of all ages learn how to protect themselves from TB. We must put more money into medical research to find better ways of fighting TB."

Baldwin Is PTA Speaker On Monday

Contra Costa's 32nd District, California Congress of Parents and Teachers, Inc. will hear Congressman John F. Baldwin speak at a night program in Martinez, November 30 at 8 p.m.

The public meeting will be held in Martinez Junior High School, Court and Warren Streets. It will be open to men and women and members of all P-TA units in the County and to Council officers and chairmen.

Mrs. Robert T. Adams of Lafayette, district president, will conduct a limited business session before the Baldwin talk.

This will include the election of two to the District nominating committee and a resume of action taken at the November state board meeting in Los Angeles.

Three new P-TA officers will be introduced. The first, Mrs. Don Luce of Richmond, heads the new Adams Junior High School P-TA, the District's 11th unit.

The other two are new Council presidents—Mrs. Robert J. Hansen of Walnut Creek, head of the new Del Valle P-TA Council which includes 14 units in Danville, Walnut Creek and Lafayette, and Mrs. Milton Wood of Concord, president of Mt. Diablo P-TA Council which, after recent division, includes all P-TA units within the Mt. Diablo Unified School District.

Congressman Baldwin will be introduced by Drummond J. McCunn, superintendent of the Contra Costa Junior College District and 32nd District program chairman.

Baldwin's residence is in Martinez where he practiced law for five years before election to the House of Representatives in 1954.

His non-partisan talk will deal with recent legislation and government trends.

Mrs. F. R. Brown, Jr., president, and officers of Alhambra P-TA Council will assist the District hospitality chairman, Mrs. V. T. Andersen of Richmond.

Public Relations Workshop Will Have Speakers

The third annual Public Relations Workshop will be co-sponsored by the Contra Costa Press Club and Contra Costa Junior College District, at Contra Costa College, San Pablo, December 4.

Speakers for the afternoon session will be P. K. Macker, president of International Business Relations, Inc., and Dr. Dwight Bentel, head of the journalism and advertising department at San Jose State College.

The Right Rev. James A. Pike, bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of California, and John F. Allen, San Francisco Examiner science editor, will speak at the night banquet in the Student Activities Building.

John Ferris, press club president, said that the workshop's general objective will be analyzing efficient relations between the press and public relations people.

"The session," Ferris said, "will be beamed toward the working press and full-time public relations personnel or those who spend at least half of their time in some phase of public relations."

Registration will start at 2 p.m. After the Macker and Bentel talks there will be two panel discussions—one on how to introduce a new idea or product and another on "Fire, Flood, Strike, Scandal —How to Deal With Them."

Phil Sinnott of San Francisco, former president of the San Francisco Press Club, the first man to be awarded an honorary life membership by the Contra Costa Press Club, will be master of ceremonies.

Reservations are by Hal C. Cheney, coordinator of business and distributive education for the junior college district.

Highlanders, Red Devils Win Championships

The Piedmont Highlanders won the big one last Friday night when they staged a 19 point third quarter uprising to defeat Las Lomas and with it went the title of the Foothill Division.

The game played at Piedmont found the two elevens playing a scoreless first quarter.

THE KNIGHTS who hadn't been scored on in league play looked to be on their way to a second title, having won it all last year when they scored seven points on a second quarter touchdown.

The Knights starting a drive on their own 30 covered the necessary yardage in 17 plays with quarterback Bob Morris getting the big six from a yard out and making it 7-0 when he kicked the conversion.

The clan was unhappy when the half ended 7-0 and Coach Bob Muenter wasn't happy as he told them about it.

Piedmont came back in the third quarter to post 19 points and insure the title win.

HALBACK JOHN PFEFFER wasted little time in getting the clan on the scoreboard when he grabbed the kickoff on the 19 and raced all the way to the end zone. Las Lomas fans relaxed a bit when Piedmont missed the conversion try.

They weren't to relax long, however, as Piedmont took the lead 12-7 when a 58 yard drive ended with quarterback Rod Church running to the touchdown around left end from three yards out.

The final touchdown came about when Piedmont's end, Russ Leavitt, scooped up a fumble by the Knights' halfback Jim Sisler and ran to the final touchdown from 44 yards out. This time fullback Bobby Jones ran over the extra point.

THAT ENDED the Knights' scoring as neither club could hit end zone the rest of the way.

The Knights ended up with the statistics in their favor except the scoreboard which was the only place it really counted.

The Knights outgained Piedmont 243 yards to 203 and had 14 first downs to Piedmont's 11.

Las Lomas hit on eight of 16 passes for 88 yards while the Clan had six yards on two for four passes.

THERE WAS deserved joy at the Walnut Creek home of the Bob Muenters last Friday night. Muenter's sons, Todd, 7 (left), and Craig, 10, raise the Piedmont football coach's arms in expression of "He's our champ" after the Highlanders defeated Las Lomas to win the Football Division varsity grid title. This season was Piedmont's second in the league, and marked their first title. Las Lomas was the winner in 1958. —Sun photo by Mattson.

The Contra Costa Division of the D.V.A.L. found the Mt. Diablo Red Devils surprising with their second consecutive championship.

Coach Hart Fairclough's club was not figured to win after losing heavily by graduation from last year's squad.

THEY HAD A GOOD practice season against not too strong teams, then in their league opener dropped the decision to the Pittsburg Pirates.

Pitt fell by the wayside later on as they dropped a pair while Diablo picked up a full head of steam and went on to top the standings as they won the next four in a row.

Clayton Valley playing their first year of varsity ball came near being the Cinderella team as they wound up with a 3-2 record in a tie for second place.

The Pleasant Hill Rams the pre-season favorite wound up in the cellar as injuries plagued them all season long and after the chips were all in they ended up with a one win from low record to end up in the cellar.

Miramonte	0	4

In frosh play, the Acalanes Babes wound up their season undefeated as they had but 14 points scored against them—those in a 35-14 win over Piedmont.

The Del Valle frosh, in their first year as a school, came along strong at the end of the season as they tied one and won a pair in their final three outings.

THE ACALANES FROSH win marked their fourth consecutive title.

It is interesting to note that Las Lomas was a consistent performer, finishing no lower than second in the three standings.

Here're the Central County's 'All Stars'

By SOSS OPPLE

All league selections are on tap now that the grid season is at an end and it is with interest that The Sun sets up an all star eleven within the confines of the area covered by The Sun.

This means Pleasant Hill High, Las Lomas High, Acalanes High and Miramonte High.

To make any selection is always a difficult problem and no matter what selections are made there is always room for debate.

Old Soss Opple predicted the game results week by week, and while he started out well enough had rugged going along near the end. He has been wrong plenty of times and if you think him wrong again, well, we will just charge it up to the good old democratic right to disagree.

Rather than select first and second teams I am just presenting what coaches in the area felt in regards to various players. The players selected are not necessarily in order of judged ability.

It's just that they were mentioned often and made the club as it were, one which any coach would like to assemble—say at the start of next year's football practice. Read 'em and cheer or take that second guess!

Centers John Reschert (Las Lomas), Jeff Picard (Acalanes). Guards Lou Cosso (Acalanes), Harold Rogers (Las Lomas), Jim Hinds (Pleasant Hill) and Mason Fries (Miramonte). Ends Rick Miles (Las Lomas), Dick Dole (Pleasant Hill). Tackles Mike Ryan (Pleasant Hill), Walt Dathe (Pleasant Hill), Denny Toll (Acalanes). Halfbacks Dave Shepard (Pleasant Hill), Chris Rinne (Acalanes), Jim Sisler (Las Lomas), Stew Fox (Acalanes), Tom Webb (Pleasant Hill). Fullbacks Mike Hair (Las Lomas) and Roger Foulk (Pleasant Hill).

Bruce Hancock of Miramonte was placed as a general utility player who could do a good job in any position. Jim Holden (Acalanes) and Doug Martin received special mention for their defensive play. Bob Morris was placed as a reserve quarterback and as a place kick specialist.

Meet Dan Glines, Don Coach

Dan Glines, the youthful and popular mentor of the Acalanes varsity basketball team, is in his third season at Acalanes and his quintet is favored by many to cop the championship due to a host of veterans back from last year's club that tied with Miramonte and Las Lomas for the Foothill Division title.

Last year's team drew the praises of basketball fans when they won a playoff to play in the Tournament of Champions where they wound up in second place.

DAN ATTENDED Albany High School where he played three years of basketball, three years of baseball and one year of track. He entered Cal in the fall of 1948 and while there played frosh basketball and baseball and then varsity baseball before graduating in 1952.

Upon graduation he put in two years with Uncle Sam's army then came back to Cal from 1954 to 1957, where he received his teaching credential along with a masters degree.

He coached the University of California 145 pound team from 1954 to 1957 and had outstanding success. He became a disciple of the Pat Newell system during this time and follows the Cal team and Newell's latest innovations up to the minute.

HIS TEAMS are noted for their play making and above all their fine defensive maneuvers.

Dan is a taskmaster and work and more work is his order of the day.

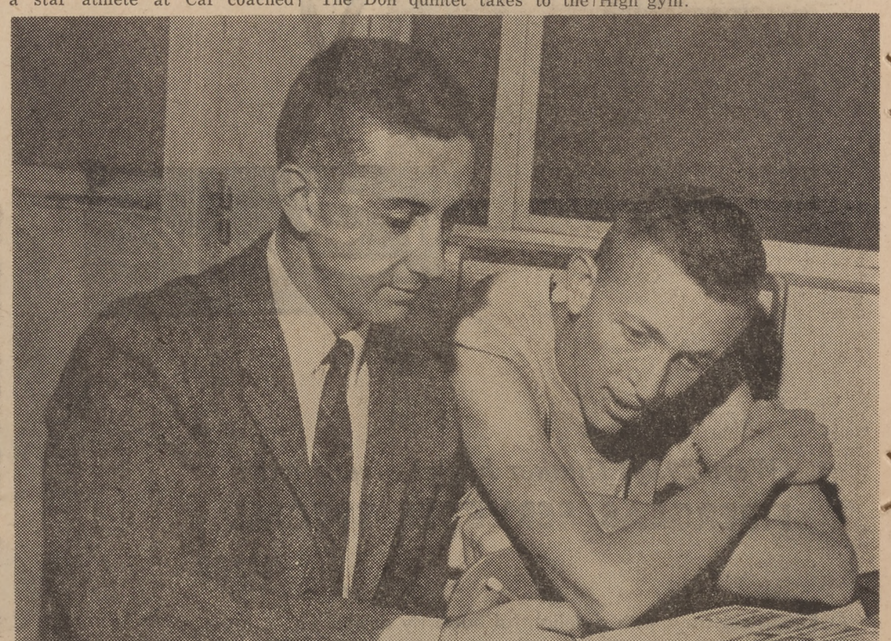
His hobbies other than following Cal's team are fishing and photography.

He was married last year to the former Barbara Clymer and both teach at Acalanes.

Barbara incidentally serves as a scout, critic, and scorekeeper who does it all with rare ability having come from an athletic family.

Her father whom many will recall as "Dutch" Clymer while a star athlete at Cal coached for many years at Merion Junior College where he is now the College president, known more formally as Dr. Paul Clymer.

The Don quintet takes to the hardwood for their first practice game December 1, when they host Vallejo High in the local structure known as the Acalanes High gym.



LOOKING FORWARD to another cage season at least as rewarding as last year's, Acalanes basketball coach Dan Glines (left) explains a pre-season defensive maneuver to one of his ace forwards, Mel Simpson. The Dons were the Cinderella team of the Bay Area last year, winning the league title in a playoff, then going on to finish second in the highly-competitive Tournament of Champions. —Sun photo by Mattson.

A Correction, Some Grades, Some Hindsight and Views

By ERWIN MATTSON

Last week's sports page carried a picture of two former Acalanes greats showing them at the Acalanes-Las Lomas game.

The pair, Mike White and Lloyd Torchio, has just completed a most successful job of coaching the Cal Frosh gridders.

THE REASON I MENTION this is not only that they are two of the finest in every way but to correct an error in last week's picture caption. The captain placed Lloyd as head coach while Mike was listed as the assistant.

To set the record straight it was just the reverse and to set it straight further they are both head men in anything you want to name.

★ ★ ★

It appears that Acalanes is really going to get some new much needed football stands. If they don't people will have to stand as the stands well all but down by the middle of the week and should be non-existent at this time.

They have been scheduled to be erected several times in the past. This time it looks as if they are really going up which means that Christmas arrived early at Acalanes.

GRADING TIME was on hand last Tuesday and that means problems in athletics where so many use it as a prop to encourage the student to get top marks.

Coaches would be the first to agree that any student should work to his capacity in the classroom and do well in order to be able to take part in athletics.

★ ★ ★

The difficulty lies in judging what the individual's achievement should be. Different individuals have different abilities whether it be athletics, English, Spanish or musical ability.

The important thing is to set the individuals goal within reasonable reach of the individual—one he can achieve. Too high a goal results in nothing but frustration all around.

DON'T FORGET that school today is much more difficult than it was 20 or more years ago. Competition is keener and standards for grades are much higher. In fact many feel there is a certain amount of hysteria in the "mad race" with Russia and that we have lost a reasonable sense of balance in our public applied pressure to be first.

It should be remembered that athletics have many educational values in themselves and if they don't then they have no place in the educational system.

They can and should be used as a positive influence rather than as a club.

★ ★ ★

I often wonder how it would be if kids could look back and see their parents' report cards! It could be quite a revelation in a number of cases I know of having been in teaching for 29 years.

There are lots of strains and stresses in a student's life today—let's be careful of not adding unnecessary frustration. The mental institutions are crowded now.

★ ★ ★

Back to more pleasant things, I see where two fine rivals in high school are now first string frosh basketball players at San Jose. The pair is Bill Yonge of Acalanes and John Coffey of Miramonte.

Another Miramonte hoopster making good is Randy Young who is hitting the hoop at Davis.

Wrestling is becoming a big prep sport, in fact turnouts increase each year. The word is out that Diablo High will host the Northern California Meet this spring which will give local fans a chance to see the top preps in action.

THIS IS ONE game where opponents are matched by weight. It is a closely regulated sport and one that enables a boy to learn the basic fundamentals of self defense.

It's a far cry from the so-called professional wrestling which is as phony as a lead nickel. In fact, in California they are limited as exhibitions, although many people still think they are on the level.

★ ★ ★

Say, incidentally, this is a good time to make you all league football pickers. The coaches will get together next week to make their selections, but it's certain the bleacher fans won't agree unanimously.

It's difficult to judge over a short league schedule, but it does furnish debate material although we shouldn't take them too seriously.

The outstanding will be honored and that's as it should be, some will be debatable and htat's unavoidable. But, just think—how many can name last year's all league team, let alone two years ago?

Pop Warner Gridsters Set Parents Information Meet

The proposed Lafayette Thunderbirds for the Pop Warner Conference will hold a Parents Booster Club meeting December 10 at the Montecito School, 999 Leland Drive, Lafayette, at 7:30 p.m.

Parents will be introduced to the coaching staff by Pete Villa.

Villa will explain to the parents the program that will be set down for the boys that will participate. A film will be shown to the parents of one of the outstanding Pop Warner games of the past season so that they may see for themselves the type of football that is played by boys of the 11 to 14 year old bracket.

November 29, the Contra Costa Pioneers will play a Bowl game with the Montebello Braves from the Los Angeles area at Pleasant Hill High School at 1:30 p.m. this will be a good opportunity for people of the community that will like to help the Lafayette team get started to see for themselves the Pop Warner program.

Joe Dame of the Orinda Rotary has been named advisor for the new proposed team.

Acalanes Nails Miramonte In Finale of Grid Season

The Acalanes Dons came up with a surprise maneuver in their opening quarter with Miramonte last Friday night. Speedy Chris Rinne, normally a flanker back, came up as a surprise "down under" quarterback.

Sweeping on roll outs mixed with occasional reverses, the Don offense rolled for plenty of yardage but had difficulty in scoring when penalties set them back despite the fact that they drove deep into Mat territory on several occasions in the first quarter.

THE DONS DID get going in the second quarter when they posted a 13-0 half time lead. The first six points came when end Doug Inman set the stage as he recovered a Miramonte fumble on their own 9.

On the first play from scrimmage fullback Stew Fox found an opening around right end and went in for the score.

The Dons hit again late in the period when Tom Strain playing deep in a pass formation made a brilliant run from 32 yards out after Rinne had placed it there with a 35 yard intercepted pass return.

This time Bill Jenks kicked the conversion after having missed on his first try.

In the third quarter Miramonte got into the scoring act when quarterback Randy Therman tossed a looping 15 yard aerial which halfback Bill Kent took on the dead run, grabbing the pigskin just before he went out the end zone.

THE MIRAMONTE rooting section was cut short when the Dons hit again in the same quarter as Strain made it from 9 yards out on a fourth down try. Fox added the extra point when he scooped up a bad pass from center on the conversion try and scrambled around left end.

In the final quarter the Dons hit again with Fox doing the damage on a three yard run around left end.

Acalanes wound up with 218 yards rushing to Miramonte's 94. The Dons had 24 yards passing (3 for 13) while Milamonte had 61 yards (8 for 13).

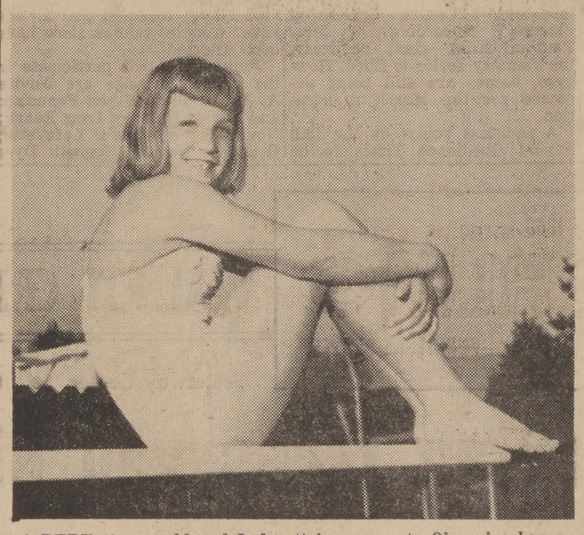
Pert Miss Makes Big Splash



A PERT 10-year-old and Lafayette's answer to Olympic champ Pat McCormack, Claudia Lehto won the first place award in her age group—10 and under—at last week's Northern California Pacific Association A.A.U. diving championships held at the Athens Athletic Club in Oakland. Claudia is another champ from the Soltau Swim Club in Walnut Creek, and she was coached by Bob Sherman. The young miss won out by more than 15 points over her nearest competitor.

—Sun photo by Mattson.

Add the name of Claudia Lehto to the ever growing list of swimming celebrities of the local area.

Claudia is a pert, blonde miss ten years of age who has a charming personality to go with her diving abilities which were proven on Sunday, November 8, when she won first place diving honors in her age group.

THE MEET SPONSORED by the Pacific Association amateur athletic Union drew participants from all of Northern and Central California to the Athens Club pool in Oakland.

Claudia represented the team sponsored by the Soltau Swim School. She took to diving lessons quite by accident as it was only last July that she was trying to do flips off the board of the neighborhood pool and making quite a splash doing it, so much so in fact that her parents decided lessons might keep her from hurting herself.

Thus she came under the instruction of Coach Bob Sherman who found her not only an eager and ready pupil but one with a great deal of natural ability.

During the summer her practice sessions were daily but now with winter weather on hand the workouts are limited to once or twice a week.

THE NEXT BIG meet is set for this spring and will be held somewhere in the local area and be sponsored by local groups.

Claudia has a younger sister Heidi, age 4, who can already dive

Rams Look Good, But Bow To Mt. Diablo's 'Machine'

The Pleasant Hill Rams made a go of it with the Diablo Red Devils for a half last Friday night but the roof caved in when the Devils rolled on to a 20-6 win which gave them the second varsity title in a row.

The Rams playing on their home field did everything but score in the opening quarter as they kept the Devils penned up in their own half of the field with one of three penetrations reaching the Concord eleven before a fumble stopped the Rams short.

THE RAMS SCORED their six when speed burner Tom Webb raced 20 yards to pay dirt on a well executed reverse.

The Rams blew the extra point try when they were offside as fullback Roger Foulk went over on a crack at the line. That set them back to the seven and an attempted pass play was butted down. Diablo came back to recover a Ram fumble on their own 30. Devil quarterback Marty Piscovick hit end Bob Berguland on the three where fullback Tom Brown lugged it over with less than half a minute on the clock. The conversion try missed and it ended up 6-6 at the half.

The Devils pennant band opened the second half with a score when they took the kickoff and went 60 yards in pine plays and this time added the extra point

Potted, Blooming Mums Give Color For Thanksgiving

Here are some items which should receive the gardener's attention this week:

Cut long stems on fading roses, and get a head start on winter pruning. Don't actually prune the bushes, however, until after Christmas.

Potted chrysanthemums in bloom will give you quick seasonal color for the Thanksgiving holiday.

Lawns fed in November will often stay greener in winter months despite a natural tendency to go dormant.

Spring bulbs are still to be planted for some easy, built-in color. Plant clumps of single varieties for good effect.

Berried shrubs — holly and pyracantha especially — can be purchased in full berry at nurseries to brighten your fall and winter months.

County Honors Vet Employees

Joe M. Buralho of 1339 San Reliez Court, Lafayette, and Harrie Solomon of 201 Astrid Drive, Pleasant Hill, were honored for service to Contra Costa County, this week.

Buralho, an oil sprayer and bootman, has 15 years service and Harrie Solomon, head nurse, has 10 years service.

EBMUD Needs Representative

A civil service examination on December 3 will be conducted by the East Bay Municipal Utility District to fill the position of commercial representative assistant.

The commercial representative assistant, who is concerned with new water service connections, receives a beginning rate of $504 and advances to $532 in six months and to $562 in 18.

Requirements for the position are completion of the twelfth grade or its equivalent and five years of employment in office work.

One year of experience must have been in successfully dealing with people and gaining acceptance of policies, practices, or services. Except for that year, experience may be substituted by college on a year for year basis up to a maximum of your years. Filing deadline is Monday.

Pansy and Viola Are Two Cures for Winter Blues

Next time a gardener friend gives you a cheerless greeting—complaining of bleak winter days that lie ahead—remind him that there are two very good antidotes for the mid-winter blues . . . namely the pansy and the viola.

The California Association of Nurserymen cautions, however, that if we are to enjoy the later winter and early spring blooms that this hardy pair promises, it behooves us to plant them now without delay.

THEY ARE presently available in flats at your C.A.N. nursery, together with other winter-hardy annuals such as stock, snapdragons and Pot Marigolds (calendulas).

Many people still think of the pansy as the old-fashioned purplish flower with dark spots and pixie-like appearance so familiar in grandma's garden.

Although this type still has widespread appeal, you can now have pansies in nearly all shades of blue, white, ruby and golden sunny yellow. And the shape and form of these pert looking little plants get more interesting all the time. Recent introductions will produce flowers measuring four and five inches in diameter.

TELLING THE difference between a pansy and a viola can be a neat trick. But it doesn't really matter because either or both will happily fill the bill for the type of color and brightness you are seeking.

Violas cover the complete spectrum of blues from pale lavender to deep violet, as well as white, yellow and apricot.

Both of these plants should be transplanted into good soil, watered at planting time and kept moist until definitely established in their new location—unless winter rains take over.

OTHER THAN THIS, about the only cultural requirement is to pick off the blooms as they fade. But this is no hardship.

You will have so many of them you will want to cut them anyway for indoor cheer.

Christian Science Churches to Fete Thanksiving Day

A special Thanksgiving service will be held Thursday at 11 a.m. by the First Church of Christ, Scientist, 22 Orinda Highway, Orinda; 1347 Locust Street, Walnut Creek; and Grant and Park Streets, Concord.

A period devoted to voluntary expressions of gratitude for God's goodness is included in the Thanksgiving Day service in all Christian Science churches.

No collection is taken at this service, and local members have invited the public to attend.

The Thanksgiving Day proclamation of the President of the United States will be read at the service. Readings from the King James version of the Bible and from "Science and Health With Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will comprise the Lesson-Sermon for the day entitled "Thanksgiving."

Silk-Screening Is Topic For Artists on Monday

Mrs. Mildred Rackley Simon of Lafayette will speak at the next Diablo Art Association meeting on Monday at 8 p.m. at the Real Estate Board Building, 1343 Locust Street, Walnut Creek.

Her topic will be the "Art of Silk Screening." She will demonstrate its process and show samples of her work. Earl Allen, program chairman, said the lecture is free.

After the talk refreshments will be served and guests may show their work for informal discussion.

Miss Mary Way, president, said election of officers for 1960 will be held.

Mrs. Ruth Hussey, exhibit chairman, reported several one-man shows for the following DAA artists in the local area on view during December — Alamo Medical center, Jerrie Burnside; Danville Village Theater, R. Sears, Walnut Creek, Billie Joiner; Pleasant Hill Rest Home, James Lawson; Pleasant Hill Nut Bowl, Jack Laycox; and Suburban Carpets, Walnut Creek, Jessie Thomason.

Also in December will be a special Christmas Card Workshop sponsored by the Diablo Art Association under the direction of Earl Allen.

It will be held December 5 at 1:30 p.m. at the Walnut Creek Elementary School, 2427 Walnut Boulevard, Walnut Creek.

A 30 cent minimum fee for materials will be charged. For information and enrollment call Mrs. Barbara Johnson or write to Mr. Earl Allen, 300 Northgate Road, Concord by next Friday.

Two DAA artists won recent art show awards. They are Mr. Fred Pring with a first prize from the Delta Art Show and Mr. Otto Schuchard with an honorable mention at the Concord Library Show.

Symposium on Education To Have Speaker Panel

The Diablo Valley College Faculty Association will present its annual Symposium on Education today in the college cafeteria.

This year the Symposium has been jointly planned by a committee of the Faculty Association and a Citizens Advisory Committee.

Entitled "Teaching in a Democracy," the program will open with three views of education presented by a distinguished panel of speakers.

After the three presentations by the panel, a group of questioner-commentators will join with the audience in focusing the discussion upon education issues.

Questioners are Board Member Mrs. Doris Loveridge, Mt. Diablo Unified School District; Teacher-Supervisor Miss Jean Wilson, curriculum supervisor, Oakland City Schools; Teacher Miss Sandra Bozarth, Spanish teacher, Clayton Valley High School; Visiting Teacher from Great Britain Keith Leckie, history teacher. The discussion will be headed by John Moiso, assistant superintendent in charge of personnel, Mt. Diablo Unified School District.

For reservations write Willis Middleton, Symposium Committee, Diablo Valley College.

Dental Group Re-affirms Fluoridation

At a recent meeting of the East Bay Dental Conference, officers and members reaffirmed an earlier endorsement of fluoridation of the public water supply.

The endorsement was considered necessary inasmuch as the increase in population has now reached 1,100,000 people in the East Bay area, a considerable increase since the conference originally endorsed fluoridation in 1950, said Dr. James Seaman.

Intensive research over a quarter of a century shows conclusively that water containing a proper amount of fluoride reduces dental decay by about 65 per cent, he said.

Equally conclusive research has demonstrated that controlled fluoridation is completely safe, causing no bodily harm of any kind, he added.

"Virtually every scientific and professional organization having competence in the field of health have recommened fluoridation of public water supplies as being safe for human consumption. If started in childhood, the protection to the teeth is effective over a lifetime, and the protection costs only a few cents per person per year," Dr. Seaman concluded.

Fluoridation is now in its fifteenth year as a public health measure.
